REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
Washington, D. C., December 4, 1905

SIR: I have the honor to submit my report as Librarian of Congress for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905.

FINANCE

The following table exhibits the appropriations and expenditures of the Library proper and of the Copyright Office for the fiscal year, and the appropriations for the year now current. Details are given in Appendix Ia. Included also are the appropriations for the equipment and care of the building and grounds, expended by the Superintendent. The allotment for printing and binding (during the past year $185,000) is not included.

a Including balance brought forward.

b This expenditure is offset by subscriptions covered into the Treasury during the past year $15,496.55 actually applied.

c This expenditure is offset by fees covered into the Treasury during the past year $78,058.

d Exclusive of $1,500 to be expended by the marshal of the Supreme court for new books for that body.

e Increased from $30,000 by act of February 18, 1904.

Of the $311,360 appropriated for salaries, exclusive of the Sunday and special services, $932.30 were unexpended and remain in the Treasury. This sum represents not a surplus provision for service, but salaries for a time undrawn, those of employees temporarily absent without pay, or of new appointees who failed to qualify promptly after appointment.

As will be seen, the appropriations for the past year were substantially identical with those for the preceding. In the general force the increase was merely of a thousand dollar employee. The only other increases in the appropriations under my control (those for the Copyright Office and the Card Section) were to meet the increasing business in two divisions of our work which are self-sustaining; and were more than offset by the receipts.

For the coming year there has been provided no increase except of $1,000 for service in one of these two divisions—the Card Section. I asked for none other, except the following, all in repetition of previous requests:

1 stenographer and typewriter for the Periodical Division, at..	$900
1 clerk, Copyright Office, at	600
Certain increases of salary in the nature of adjustments, amounting to	2,500
Additional for increase of the Library	10,000
Index to comparative legislation.....	28,000

These are also the limit of my requests in the estimates recently submitted for the fiscal year 1906-7. If I go no further it is not because there is not useful work on hand and in prospect exceeding the capacity of our present force, but because I wish to keep the estimates within the dimension which five years ago I stated to be necessary for a reasonable progress with the work then seen to be absolutely necessary. In point of numbers the force is now as I planned for then; but the organization is not, nor will it be, until there shall be granted the increases in salary which are necessary to adjust fairly the salaries of certain employees doing equivalent work without equivalent pay.

SERVICE

(Noting only changes prior to June 30, 1905)

Among the resignations of the past year has been that of Mr. J. Christian Bay, of our Catalogue Division, a well-trained specialist in certain branches of science, particularly natural history and biology. He left us to become chief classifier of the John Crerar Library of Chicago. In exchange, however, Mr. Clarence W. Perley has returned to us from that very position. His specialty is rather the applied sciences. In these also the division has been strengthened by the appointment of Mr. H. H. B. Meyer, late of the New York Public Library. Mr. Alexis V. Babine, our specialist in Russian literature, resigned last spring to become a member of the office of the Associated press at St. Petersburg. Miss Laura Hammond, of the Catalogue Division, accepted the post of librarian of the Georgia School of technology.

Resignations

Another government library has been supplied from our service, that of the Naval War College at Newport, to the librarianship of which Mr. Frederick C. Hicks, late of our Map Division, was appointed after competitive examination.

The Copyright Office has lost the exceedingly efficient services of Mr. Leonard B. Cool, its chief clerk, who resigned last March to accept a business position of promise, requiring initiative and executive ability.

The conduct of the Division of Documents, from which Mr. Falkner resigned a year ago, has been assigned for the present to Mr. James D. Thompson, who has been with us for several years, rendering important service in the cataloguing and classification of scientific literature, and of late designated as in charge of the "Science Section"

COPYRIGHT OFFICE

The report of the Register of Copyrights appears in full as Appendix II.

The principal statistics of the business done are as follows:

It will be noted that during the past year the number of entries has reached 113,374.

The fees from copyrights are covered into the Treasury, and not applied directly to the maintenance of the Copyright Office. They form a regular revenue of the Government, however, and a net revenue over the direct expenses of the office, as appears from the following comparison:

Stationery and sundries.....	967.72
		<hr/> 75,630.18
Net cash earnings		<hr/> 2,427.82

The amount expended for salaries ($74,662.46) includes the sum of $4,680 paid in salaries to certain employees who have been classifying and crediting the old deposits received prior to 1897. This expenditure is chargeable to arrears. The current expenses of the office are therefore considerably more than met by the current receipts.

The above statement includes all disbursements except the cost of furniture, of printing, and of binding, but only cash receipts.

In addition to cash fees the copyright business brings each year to the Government, in the articles deposited, property to the value of many thousands of dollars. During the past fiscal year 207,424 such articles were received. The value of those drawn up into the collections of the Library far exceeded the amount of net cash earnings.

The work of the Copyright Office is divided into two portions: (1) The current business, covering applications received since the reorganization of the office under the Register in 1897; (2) the arrears, the classification, crediting, and indexing of the entries and deposits prior to 1897 (i. e., from 1870, when the office was first placed under the Librarian of Congress).

On the 6th day of July, 1905, when the report of the Copyright Office was submitted, the remittances received up to the third mail of the day had been recorded and acknowledged; the account books of the bookkeeping division were written up and posted to June 30, and the accounts rendered to the Treasury Department were settled up to and including the month of June, while earned fees to June 30, inclusive, had been paid into the Treasury.

All copyright applications received up to and including June 30 had been* passed upon and refunds made. The total unfinished business for the full eight years, from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1905, amounts to but $442.47, as against a total of completed business for the same period of $527,335.50.

At the close of business on July 6, 1905, notwithstanding the intervening Saturday half-holiday and Sunday, the titles for record in all classes had been dated, classified, and numbered to June 30. All titles had been indexed up to June 30.

The articles of all classes deposited during the year had been stamped, catalogued, and credited up to the receipts of June 30, inclusive.

The Catalogue of Title Entries had been brought forward to No. 730 of June 29, 1905.

The certificate and noncertificate entries (all classes except A to June 27, and B and C to June 28) had been recorded to June 30, inclusive, and certificates and notices of entry to the same date, made, revised, and mailed.

COPYRIGHT OF-FICE:

The arrears

The examination and arrangement of the mass of deposits has been continued, and 51,868 credited musical compositions (previously arranged by years of entry) have been given a more exact arrangement and conveniently shelved for future reference.

Credited articles to the number of 44,263 (including 6,083 pamphlets, 12,932 leaflets, 9,694 periodicals, and 14,071 musical compositions) have been properly filed away under year and number. In the work of crediting deposits, 18,494 articles were handled, and 17,722 articles (including 2,083 pamphlets and 14,208 musical compositions) were credited and properly filed away. In the case of 772 articles, identification and credit could not be made, and they were accordingly indexed and filed.

Index cards (title and proprietor) for dramatic compositions to the number of 14,811 were written.

At the close of business June 30, 1905, there remained uncredited in the files of the Copyright Office 174,325 articles deposited prior to July 1, 1897, as follows:

Books	1, 609
Pamphlets and leaflets	41, 763
Periodical contributions	3, 138

Total	174, 325

During the past eight years the business done by the Office shows the following:

Total number of entries.....	751, 123
Total number of articles deposited.....	1, 276, 143
Total amount of fees received and applied.....	$527, 335. 50
Total expenditure for service.....	$427, 588. 22
Net receipts above expenses for service.....	$99, 747. 28

During the thirty-five years since the copyright work became a business of the Library of Congress, the total number of entries has been 1,631,979. Of the total number of articles deposited during that time, there are in the files of the Copyright Office 1,439,611, exclusive of those transferred to the Library proper.

*Revision of
copyright laws*

A revision of the copyright laws is considered later in my report. See pages 85-94.

INCREASE OF THE LIBRARY

Adopting the figures of the count of printed books and pamphlets in June, 1902, as being nearly accurate, the total contents of the Library, inclusive of the Law Library, at the close of the past two fiscal years were as follows:

*Contents of the Library June 30,
1904, and June 30,
1905*

Description	1904	1905	Gain
Books	1, 275, 667	1, 344, 618	68, 951
Manuscripts (pieces)	(a)	(a)
Maps and charts (pieces)	76, 129	82, 744	6, 615
Music (pieces)	384, 418	410, 352	25, 934
Prints (pieces)	158, 451	183, 724	25, 273

^aThe number of pieces of manuscripts in the Library June 30, 1904, was estimated in my last report as 121,266. Such an estimate, itemizing, for example, every letter in an unbound collection, but rating as but a unit a collection of letters in a bound volume, professes a particularity which it does not imply. It has been customary, but we shall for the present discontinue it. When the collection shall have become grouped into volumes we may resume the statistics upon the basis of these.

The following gives a summary of the accessions to the Library during the past fiscal year, and, for convenience in comparison, the corresponding accessions for the year preceding:

Description	Net accessions		ACCESSIONS: Printed books and pamphlets
	1904	1905

Miscellaneous.....	9, 963	200

^a Report omitted.

The accessions of the past two years in detail, classified by source, have been as follows:

How acquired	1904	1905
By purchase.....	30, 735	22, 998
By gift	6, 100	16, 348
By copyright	9, 589	11, 763

Duplicates sent in exchange.....	1, 388	17, 962
Total deducted.....	10, 014	26, 805
Net accessions	80, 136	68, 951

^a Does not include numbers completed into volumes of periodicals, now reported only when bound.

A list of the accessions of the year should of course accompany a complete exhibit of the year's operations. We could not justify the expense of printing it; and I do not feel inclined longer to justify the expense of printing the "Select Lists of Recent Purchases," which have formed appendices to the reports during the past four years. The disposition of the Library in its deliberate development is sufficiently indicated by the three such lists already issued with this very purpose. Hereafter we shall limit the recital of important accessions to general descriptions in the main text, of collections, and to lists (appended) only of such items as may have enriched in a notable way some particular department of literature.

Thus the present report includes such particular mention of additions to the Manuscripts, Maps, and Print divisions, and the Law Library, with itemized lists of certain notable additions, particularly in law.

Notable gifts

Except for the Kellen collection of law and certain collections of manuscripts, there has been no important purchase en bloc. The former is referred to under Law Library, below, and is listed in full in Appendix VI. The latter are described under "Manuscripts," below. More important collections of manuscript than those bought have, however, been received as gifts. These also are described below. The additions to the Orientalia have included 198 works in Chinese, comprising 1,965 volumes, which formed part of the exhibit of China (the Province of Hupeh) at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and at its conclusion were given to the Library by the Chinese government through its legation at Washington. There have been other gifts of Orientalia, especially 120 volumes from the Fort William

College at Calcutta, which bring our collection of Orientalia to a total of 12,400 volumes, as follows :

Manchu	950
Chinese.....	9,700
Japanese....	750
Arabic.....	125
Turkish.....	400
Persian ...	50
Armenian.....	90
Siamese.....	90
Unclassified—Bugi, Gujeratee, Hindu, Sanskrit, Tamil, Telu- gee, etc.....	245
Total	12,400

Of these the Chinese (except those from St. Louis) and Japanese have all been catalogued. The catalogue of the Chinese should be printed. It awaits only some revision as to form which Professor Dr. Hirth, of Columbia, has kindly consented to give it.

As appears from the records below of the accessions to particular divisions, there have been other notable gifts of material special in character; for example, from France and from the Argentine Republic, collections of photographs exhibiting the activities, etc., of learned societies and universities; from Italy the collection of photographs, plans, and maps of Italian railroads—all three of which formed instructive portions of the respective governmental exhibits at St. Louis; from Germany the collection of facsimile reproductions by the "Reichsdruckerei" of engravings by the old masters, entitled "Kupferstiche und Holzschnitte alter Meister in Nachbildungen." This publication represents for Germany a service to the study of prints which for France is rendered by the prints issued by the Chalcographie du Louvre—a set of which was presented to us two years ago by the Government of France. The Library is thus reaping valuable benefit from the comity between our Government and those of foreign countries.

The paragraphs which follow, descriptive of the accessions to the several divisions of the Library and their operation, are in the main drawn from the reports to me of their respective chiefs.

DIVISION OF DOCUMENTS

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905, the accessions to the Library through the Division of Documents were as follows:

DOCUMENTS:
Accessions

How acquired	Volumes	Pamphlets	Total
Received by virtue of law.....	693	122	815
Gifts of Government of the United States in all its branches	8,540	4,479	13,019
Gifts of State governments	1,798	1,014	2,812
Gifts of local governments.....	272	219	491
Gifts of foreign governments (International Exchanges).....	4,636	1,838	6,474
Gifts of corporations, associations, and individuals	293	1,108	1,401
Total to be recorded.....	16,232	8,780	25,012
By purchase, exchange, and deposit	748	350	1,098
Total handled	16,980	9,130	26,110

Comparison with the statistics of the previous fiscal year shows a very large increase in the receipts from all sources listed in the above table, except those included under the heading "Gifts of local governments."

Transfers of duplicates or documents no longer in use at the Department libraries form the greater part of the 13,019 volumes and pamphlets noted as "gifts of the Government of the United States in all its branches."

During the past year the list of countries to which the United States sends its documents regularly in exchange has been increased by the addition of Bolivia, Ceylon, Egypt, Malta, Nicaragua, Orange River Colony, and Salvador, and is now to include the Empire of China; an understanding with the Chinese authorities having been effected through the American Minister at Peking, Mr. Rockhill.

Arrangements have been made by which the Library of Congress now receives the official publications of the Dominion of Canada as issued in paper covers. Heretofore only the bound volumes of the sessional papers were forwarded to the Library, usually a year after the publication of the separate reports.

Among the notable additions to the Library received in this Division during the past year were 191 volumes and 50 pamphlets, the gift of the Imperial Free Economic Society, St. Petersburg, consisting of the reports of the Russian local governments, and three important collections from the official exhibits at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, presented by the French, Italian, and Chinese Governments, respectively, viz: the publications of learned societies and universities of France (840 volumes, 144 pamphlets), together with photographs, lithographs, etc., which formed part of the exhibit of the French Ministry of public instruction; 80 volumes, 36 pamphlets, and a collection of photographs, plans, and maps relating to Italian railroads, from the exhibit of the Italian Ministry of public works; and the collection of Chinese books exhibited from the Province of Hupeh.

DOCUMENTS:
Gifts

During the year a special effort has been made to strengthen the collection of foreign law by application to the various Governments for the publications not yet in the Library. Through the cooperation of the diplomatic and consular representatives of the United States valuable additions were made to the collection of codes, statutes, and court reports of the following countries: Bulgaria, Colombia, Ecuador, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Norway, Paraguay, Peru, Switzerland, and Venezuela.

Colonial statutes

Letters were addressed to the secretaries of the various British colonies and all the statutes available were received from the following: Cape Colony, Gambia, Gibraltar, Hong Kong, India, Lagos, Mauritius, Natal, New South Wales, New Zealand, Orange River Colony, St. Lucia, Straits Settlements, Transvaal, and Victoria.

The "Want list of American statutes" has also been taken up systematically and a considerable number of the required volumes has been obtained by special solicitation from the Secretaries of State and the State librarians.

Among other State documents special attention has been given to completing the sets of reports of railroad commissions, in view of their particular interest at the present time.

Deductions

The policy of eliminating duplicates of United States documents by forwarding them to the Superintendent of Documents, and duplicates of State documents by returning them to the respective States, has been continued. The numbers thus disposed of during the year are as follows:

	Volumes	Pamphlets	Total
United States documents.....	3,907	608	4,515
State documents.....	6,798	3,321	10,119
Total to be deducted	10,705	3,929	14,634

DIVISION OF MANUSCRIPTS^a

The usual table of accessions, which I stated in my last report to be misleading, is omitted, as it becomes more misleading each year. Were the accessions few in number, easily identified, and capable of being at once permanently located, such a statement by number would be possible. But each large collection contains thousands of pieces which are received in a much-confused condition, with wrappers, memoranda, note and account books, checks and receipts—a mass of miscellaneous accumulations of many descriptions. To count the papers on receipt is misleading, as in their folded condition inclosures would escape notice and the various sheets or parts of a single letter or document if separated would be counted two or more times. The collection as received may contain matter that is returned to the giver or that is discarded as of no public value or interest. The difference between the number of pieces in the original condition of the collection and the number of pieces in the collection as finally assorted and ready for permanent treatment would often be great, so great as to vitiate any statements of count. I therefore omit the statistical table of accessions, and shall trust in future to state the actual number in each collection as finally arranged and bound.

^a Practically verbatim as submitted by the Chief of the Division, Mr. Worthington C. Ford.

DIVISION OF MSS:
Accessions

The measure of the growing importance of the manuscript collections is shown by the number and nature of its accessions, whether by gift or by purchase, and by the number and character of those persons who have had occasion to consult these collections. Of the latter, no detailed list could be given; but it may be stated that the number of those who have spent weeks and even months in reading the manuscripts for historical writing has been larger than ever before, and the students represent some of the best workers in American history. The convenience and appliances, the manner of treating manuscripts, and the liberal rules governing their use have drawn attention to the advantages offered to the student. Copyist and photographer stand ready to give prompt attention to what is required, and the searcher may thus personally supervise the transcript of material or may call in photography to supply a reproduction which no copyist can rival.

In number and extent of accessions the year was a notable one. The usual list of accessions is given in Appendix VII. It is only necessary to state in this place that the original range of 12 cases and 20 safes for storing manuscripts has already proved insufficient to house the growing stores, and a second range of 12 cases will be put under glass during the current year.

The list of manuscripts received by gift during the fiscal year 1905 is given in full in Appendix VII.

*Breckinridge
papers*

A very large and, in some respects, a most important gift has been made by Miss Sophonisba Preston Breckinridge and Mr. Desha Breckinridge, children of the late Hon. William C. P. Breckinridge, of Lexington, Ky. Their father had a lifelong interest in the history of Kentucky, and had brought together the papers of his family from many sources. This great accumulation he had arranged as his time permitted, but his constant occupation in the public service, involving long absences from Kentucky, prevented his completing the task or his making the use of the papers which he had in mind. His children have given the entire collection to the Library, subject to certain conditions. An extract from the letter of Miss Breckinridge will show the liberal spirit inspiring the gift.

"GREEN HALL,
"THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO,
February 6, 1905.

"My Dear Mr. Putnam: May I now offer you the papers given me by my Father in his will—to belong to the Congressional Library subject to my right to go through them within three years after I am told that they are ready for my inspection, and to my right to retain exclusive use for two more years in case I want to make use of any of them in historical work. I should like them known as The Breckinridge Papers. I feel very sure that we both want the same thing—that such value as these papers may have may be made accessible to all the world of students.

* * * * *

“Very truly yours,

“Sophonisba Preston Breckinridge

It remains to add a word on the nature and extent of the collection. The leading features are the papers of John Breckinridge (1760–1806); John Breckinridge, his son (1797–1841); Robert Jefferson Breckinridge, another son (1800–1871), and William Campbell Preston Breckinridge, son of Robert (1837–1905). In addition there are papers of many other members of the family and connections. The number can not be closely estimated, for the papers are in envelopes, scrapbooks, file cases, and paster-books; but between twenty-five and thirty thousand would be a conservative estimate. Only a glance can be given at the contents, for the present arrangement must be changed to enable an examination to be made. John Breckinridge, the elder, was an early settler in Kentucky; the friend and correspondent of Jefferson; prominent in the State legislature; the proposer, if not the framer, of the Kentucky resolutions of 1798; United States Senator from Kentucky; and Attorney-General in Jefferson’s Cabinet. In Kentucky affairs he was a leader, and his wide connection in his native state of Virginia and in Kentucky give to his correspondence the weight of public and of social interest. In one roll were found the papers relating to the Kentucky resolutions of 1798; in another, the printed reports from day to day and the notes of debates in the State constitutional convention of 1799—two rolls containing unique papers upon matters which involve the largest questions of constitutional law and interpretation. Such material, selected haphazard from the loose papers, indicates possibilities of rich historical discoveries. Robert Breckinridge was for some years in political life, but abandoning politics he became one of the leaders in the Presbyterian church. His papers are rich in controversial matters, in questions of church government, and on the moral problems of the day, slavery being the most important. The dissensions which rent the Presbyterian church and the division in the nation causing the civil war were matters brought close to him. As a defender of the old church and one loyal to the Union when members of his own family were in opposition, his papers reflect the conditions which produced the contests, and the incidents attending their solution. William C. P. Breckinridge served in the Confederate army and was long Representative in Congress from the State of Kentucky, well known for his oratory, his mastery of public questions, and his loyalty to Democracy. Such a record of a single family, which for more than a century has been prominent in public life, is unusual, if not unique. Merely as a family history its historical content would be valuable, for the Breckinridges were widely connected with many of the prominent families of Virginia.

But it is not as a family collection that the papers will be best known. Kentucky was a frontier State. It was the cradle of Democracy, that Democracy which gave birth and occasion to Jackson, to Polk, and their successors. Its social conditions have retained many of its original features, and a certain clannishness created leadership which centered in a few families, of which the Breckinridges constituted one. No better picture of these conditions could be found or imagined, and the society which in the Kentucky of the eighteenth century looked south and west for its commercial emancipation, sought political freedom and leadership in the first half of the nineteenth century, and in 1860, an existence outside of the Federal constitution. The social conditions pertaining to the people of this State which have given rise to such a political history are worthy of careful study, and for this study the Breckinridge papers will be essential.

Dr. Stuyvesant Fish Morris, of New York, has made Van Buren papers important additions to the collection of Martin Van Buren papers. That collection, the gift of Mrs. Smith Thompson Van Buren, was described in the report of the Librarian for 1904, page 42. Rich as it is in historical material its value has been much increased by the papers which Dr. Morris has so generously given. The addition includes 860 letters, most of them written to Van Buren while Secretary of state, Vice-President, and President, and 62 circulars, printed broadsides, and campaign material. Not only do these documents cover a very important political period, but they form in themselves the best guide to the political movements of the dominant party and the best index of the hopes, fears, and ambitions of the leading political managers in the Van Buren following. A long list might be made of the good things to be found in them, such as the letters and memoranda by Andrew Jackson on the Texan question; but a mere mention of some of the prominent writers must suffice. Of the writings of Francis P. Blair there are 100 pieces, including copies of his business controversy with Amos Kendall. Of Benjamin F. Butler, of New York, the life-long friend and confidant of Van Buren, there are 52 letters. Thomas H. Benton is represented by 30 letters and George Bancroft by 34. Of New York writers the following may be mentioned: John A. Dix, 23; C. C. Cambreleng, 10; A. C. Flagg, 32; James Gordon Bennett, 6; Samuel J. Tilden, 4; E. Croswell, 10; H. Bleeker, 6; William C. Bryant, 1, and James Fenimore Cooper, 1. Other names are: James Buchanan, 17; James K. Polk, 6; P. V. Daniel, 19; John Forsyth, 19; Lewis Cass, 8; Thomas N. Carr, 10; John H. Eaton, 5; Governor William Carroll, 5; J. W. Edmonds, 9; Salmon P. Chase, 3; Simon Cameron, 3; J. Bragg (of Mobile), 6; S. R. Betts, 6; Franklin Pierce, 3; William S. Archer, 4; Gideon Welles, 4; and William Allen, of Ohio, 3. In the forty drafts of Van Buren letters is found that of his well-known letter to Sherrod Williams, but unfortunately with a few leaves missing. These drafts are of especial interest, as they show the care with which Van Buren prepared his replies to his correspondents and laid down his political principles. In many instances the letter was entirely rewritten, and in these drafts may thus be seen the first thoughts of the writer, and the more studied and final form in which these thoughts were sent out to become motive power of political action. The letters to Van Buren from his correspondents are not merely perfunctory notes, but lengthy communications on the political situation. Altogether, for the period it covers, the Van Buren collection is of incalculable value to the historian and will always remain a monument to the man and to the public spirit of those who have so freely given it to the historical archives of the nation.

Squier gift

From the family of Ephraim George Squier the Library received a collection of the papers of that archaeologist, which much strengthens the material in the Library on the ancient history of America. His original researches and diplomatic services bore fruit in writings which received recognition at home and abroad, and his wide sympathies give to his general correspondence a corresponding interest. From many sources he received material on Indian remains in America, and a close study of this collection will develop its richness in material as yet unused by him or his successors. Of Mr. Squier's own manuscripts may be mentioned: those pertaining to the "Ancient monuments of the Mississippi valley," with the illustrations drawn by the author; the manuscripts relating to Aubin's "Mexican picture writings;" papers on Indian tribes and vocabularies; documents and manuscripts on South American countries and Indians, and miscellaneous manuscripts on archaeological subjects. With these are ten volumes containing 2,200 letters from his correspondents, neatly mounted and bound. It would be difficult to describe the contents without becoming too particular, and some selected names must suffice to indicate the character of this collection: Louis Agassiz, 8; Aubin, 12; Prisse d'Avennes, 19; Spencer F. Baird, 16; Joseph Henry, 46; G. Barrios, 9; Brasseur de Bourbourg, 8; Pascual de Gayangos, 8; J. de Marcoleta, 42; S. Birch (of the British Museum), 32; Thomas Wright, 25; William Blackmore, 10; George R. Glidden, 59; Henry B. Anthony, 30; Brantz Mayer, 22; Josiah C. Nott, 34; Charles Eliot Norton, 36; Buckingham Smith, 29, and George Gibbs, 13.

Mrs. James T. Fields, of Boston, Mass., has given to the literary collections of the Library a number of interesting examples drawn from her rich stores. I regret to admit that in literary pieces the Library is not rich, and occasional letters of American and foreign authors found in the political collections do not serve to remedy this deficiency. The gift of Mrs. Fields was therefore all the more welcome as giving the foundation for such a class of manuscripts. Among the items given by Mrs. Fields were: James Russell Lowell, leaf from the "Biglow Papers;" Ralph Waldo Emerson, a letter and lines of manuscript; John G. Whittier, a poem (Andrew Rykman's prayer) and letter; Oliver Wendell Holmes, a letter and a page of "Elsie Venner;" letters of Henry W. Longfellow, Francis Parkman, Edwin Booth, Henry Ward Beecher, W. D. Howells, and Nathaniel Hawthorne; also manuscript poems by John Pierpont and Celia Thaxter, and an article in the writing of Harriet Martineau.

From other sources like material has been received:

Watson's Columbus

At the suggestion of the late Mr. John Hay, the original manuscript of William Watson's poem on "Columbus" was given to the Library. The poem was written for the occasion of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America, and was printed in the London Illustrated News. With this interesting and characteristic manuscript is a printed copy of the poem. The donor was Mr. John Lane.

Mr. Wendell P. Garrison, of New York, has sent additions to the collection already known under his name, and Mrs. Henry Carrington Bolton has given a manuscript poem, "Passaic," by Washington Irving.

It is hardly necessary to say that the Library invites such material. It desires to possess examples of the writings and manuscripts of the authors, artists, actors, and musicians of the United States. Political history is only one phase of national life, and all other phases of social activity and development should be as richly represented. The Squier and Schoolcraft, Fitch and Thornton papers offer much of value in science; but letters now in the Library of the better known authors are few in number and not important in contents.

Johnson papers

Mr. Andrew J. Patterson, of Greeneville, Tenn., presented to the Library fifteen letters of his grandfather, President Andrew Johnson, addressed to B. McDannel, of Tennessee. These letters are interesting in themselves, and some of them are early examples of Johnson's letters—earlier than any before possessed by the Library. Mr. Patterson has also very courteously deposited in the Library certain papers of Andrew Johnson and his son, Robert Johnson, which make the "Johnson collection" more complete, and round out the record of the military service of the son.

Mr. A. B. Eldredge, of Marquette, Mich., has given a very important paper which supplements the Johnson material. It is the original protest of the minority of the House of Representatives against the impeachment of President Johnson. This paper is in the writing of Hon. Charles A. Eldredge, then a member of the House, but it was not received by the House or permitted to be spread upon the Journals. This document has the signatures of 47 of the protesting members.

Here, too, should be mentioned a frame of relics of the Confederate cruiser Alabama, presented by the Rev. Edward William Odborne, of Springfield, Ill. They consist of a discharge of a seaman of the vessel, signed by Raphael Semmes and Francis L. Galt; a clipping from the Christian World (London) giving an account of the encounter with the Kearsarge, and a cap band, stamped Alabama. This frame has naturally attracted much attention from visitors.

The Library possessed very few examples of the various issues of paper currency made by the South during the civil war. An effort was made to increase the collection. It will be seen that gifts were received from the First National bank of Richmond, Va. (34 pieces), and from the First National bank of Harrisonburg, Va. (2 pieces). Mr. Dunbar Rowland, of Mississippi, presented 18 pieces of the cotton and railway notes of that State, as well as the usual State issues.

Dickins papers

Mrs. Harriott (Dickins) Wight, of Washington, D. C., has presented to the Library of Congress certain papers which belonged to Asbury Dickins and to her father, Francis A. Dickins. Asbury Dickins was in the service of the Government for forty-five years, having appointments in the Treasury and State departments, and from 1836 to 1861 he held the office of Secretary of the Senate. He was thus in touch with the public men of the time, and, as secretary of the Columbian Institute, he held a position favorable to observation of the growing scientific work of the Government. Unfortunately, the papers now given are only a fragmentary part of his collection, and his son, Francis A. Dickins, appears to have retained them as autographs rather than as historical letters. As autographs, they add to what was already in the Library, for many names of prominence are included, and the examples are of a very good quality. The collection includes some 200 letters, beside signatures, paper money of the Revolution, copies of Virginia muster rolls (Revolution), statistical statements, and printed documents. Under the conditions attached to the gift they will be known as the "Dickins" papers.

Chase papers

In the Chase papers were found a series of letters from George Stanton Denison to the Secretary of the Treasury, written from New Orleans during the Civil War. The interest and quality of the letters led to an inquiry if further writings of his could be found. His brother, Mr. James Denison, of Kendall Green, Washington, D. C., has presented to the Library 150 family letters written by George Denison during his life in Texas and Louisiana before and during the war. While writing little upon politics and public men, these letters present the views of a northern man on the social condition of the South just before the war, and supplement in many particulars the letters in the Chase collection. Another brother, Mr. Franklin Denison, of Chicago, Ill., has added copies of three letters written by George Denison in 1862 which were published in the Burlington (Vt.) Daily Free Press. With these letters is a scrapbook containing clippings from New Orleans newspapers on customs regulations and financial institutions while Denison was in charge of the Custom House.

The Library has received some good material on the history of the District and its institutions. Mr. John Meigs presented three volumes of the records of the Washington Library Company, accompanied by the following interesting letter:

“WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17, 1904

“DEAR SIR: I was for some years, 1871-1877, Secretary of the Washington Library co., and had charge of the Journals of the Directors of the Association. Upon the discontinuance of the meetings and of any active interest in the Library affairs the books were transferred to the Young Men's Christian Association by a formal agreement, and by them to the Central High School Library. The great number of the Directors of the Washington Library Association are dead and the Association for years gone into a state of desuetude. Desiring to preserve the Journals in a safe place I wish to deposit them in the Library of Congress for preservation and safe keeping. The proceedings are from April 2, 1811, to May 5, 1877, in 3 vols., folio, and are of some interest, as showing that some effort was made in Washington to work up a literary spirit by leading citizens, but it was found impossible, after 50 years of effort, to arouse any adequate cash interest in the project by citizens, and if Mr. Carnegie had not come to the rescue probably 50 years more would have elapsed before anything had been done. The collection at one time numbered something like 15,000 volumes and contained many good books for that period, but would not now be considered of much value.

“Very respectfully

“JOHN MEIGS

MANUSCRIPTS:
*Miscellaneous
gifts*

Mr. Osmun Latrobe, of New York, gave a letter from Benjamin H. Latrobe to Charles Willson Peale, on the design of an eagle for the Hall of Representatives, Capitol, and asking for drawings of the bald eagle.

Mr. William J. Rhees gave a quantity of material bearing upon the history of the Young Men's Christian Association in the District of Columbia. This material is largely in the form of clippings from newspapers.

Mr. J. Henley Smith, of Washington, had added to the Thornton papers (described in my report for 1904, p. 46), as well as presented papers of another character. Among them may be mentioned the commissions issued to Jonathan Bayard Smith, of Philadelphia, and the journals or daily records of Mrs. William Thornton, who resided in Washington for more than sixty years. The journals cover this period and constitute an invaluable storehouse of social life of the city.

From Mr. S. D. Hannah, of Boston, were received two letters of Gen. U. S. Grant; and a form of apprenticeship, 1785.

*Gift from C. P.
Greenough*

Mr. Charles P. Greenough, of Boston, presented to the Library some interesting documents. The original of a letter, dated March 18, 1766, is signed by 55 of the London merchants engaged in trade with the American colonies. The original account of John Hancock against the United States, October 25, 1777, is interesting for the items and the general form of the paper. It is accompanied by a letter from the Auditor of the Treasury, Joseph Nourse, relating to it.

An attempt was made in the past year to obtain from the executives of the various States and Territories copies of <sup>State and Territorial proclamations</sup> such proclamations as were issued by them. The attempt has met with a partial success, as will be seen from an examination of the list of accessions (Appendix VII). The regular and formal proclamations constitute the most numerous class, such as Fast day (in New England), Thanksgiving, and, more recently, Arbor, Labor, and Bird day. They mark the observance of these days of recreation and the measure of stress or neglect given to them. Occasional proclamations issued on special emergencies are more important, and the form in which they are issued is often unusual and striking. It will be seen by the list that additions have been made to the collection of broadsides in the Library. The largest gift was received from Mr. Max Lansburgh, consisting of 50 playbills of Washington theaters, 1874-1876.

Some natural reluctance to part with family papers <sup>Use of family papers</sup> has been shown by the possessors of such, in the belief that when deposited in the Library they must become accessible to every inquirer. Such a freedom of access would be out of the question, and it is only right that some judgment should be exercised in permitting entrance to collections. This judgment rests upon two factors: one, on the nature or quality of the papers themselves; and secondly, on the object of the investigator. A collection, on receipt, is examined, and whatever possesses a purely personal quality, not affected with a public interest, is set aside to be retained by the Library, to be returned to the original possessor of the papers, or to be destroyed, as he may elect. Private letters may be of high historical value, because they describe

DIVISION OF MANUSCRIPTS:*Use of family

social events and persons in a manner more free than could be found in other forms of written or printed material. Family correspondence throws more light upon the daily life, the relations, and the movements of the writer or of his correspondents than could any public or less familiar intercourse. The final disposition of such papers rests with the donor. The Library lays aside for his examination all that may not strictly be suitable to a public institution, and the decision is then made what shall be done with these manuscripts. In practice it has been found that the Library has erred in a too strict interpretation of the word "private," and the persons from whom the papers were obtained have made no objection to the retention of the selected letters and their embodiment in the main collection. In the last year only one paper was lost to the Library under this system of inspection.

A second safeguard lies in the character of the inquiry, in the object of the investigator who would consult these collections. A mere list of the students who have made use of the papers in the last year, or a list of the volumes in process the writers of which have sought and found material in the manuscripts in the Library would alone suffice to show the care taken to eliminate whatever savors of abuse or mere notoriety. It is not the intention of the Library to permit its collections to be thus exploited, and every precaution is taken to guard against it, while leaving access so free as not to prevent the satisfaction of every honest and reasonable purpose. It is possible, even, that diplomatic records have been obtained which the public interest demands should remain unpublished. The Department of State passes upon such a question. The form of a question and the general standing of the investigator are leading factors in determining how far the free use of the manuscripts can be extended. It is a pleasure to be able to record that no instance of abuse of this confidence has arisen, and no complaint has been made against the restrictions imposed.

When a collection may be deposited in the Library is not a question of either time or place. The most recent papers are naturally kept from general inspection more rigidly than are the collections of manuscripts of the eighteenth century. After a century personalities have lost their sting; contests, political or personal, have been decided, and the sense of injury has become deadened. The questions are now historical questions, and the personal character is of minor importance. With letters of or concerning men still living and still active in public life the precautions just described are applied most carefully, and they are as safe from misuse and far safer from loss than if they were retained in private hands and stored in private houses. The Library offers the labor and expense of making the examination and selection of papers, arranging and calendaring them, of binding and storing them. From masses of unarranged and indigested papers they become by this process orderly volumes, and in this state they are placed beyond any fear of destruction that inevitably surrounds family papers stored in private houses. Furthermore, from unusable and inaccessible records they become available for history, and thus serve to perpetuate the memory of public service and sacrifices to the public good. It is difficult to see how greater inducements could be offered to those who, possessing family and historical papers, would desire to see them where they will be entirely safe and their historical value appreciated.

I now pass to a brief summary of the more important manuscripts purchased during the last year.

*Crittenden
papers*

The papers of John J. Crittenden, of Kentucky, contain about 2,500 pieces, and were obtained from Mrs. Robert H. Crittenden, of Frankfort. The long and distinguished career of Crittenden in the public service and his intimacies with the men more prominently connected with opposition to the Democratic party as represented by Jackson and his immediate successors give a peculiar value to these papers, for they picture the side of national politics to which the large collections of Jackson, Van Buren, and Polk papers so fully represent the opposition. The letters from Zachary Taylor, Henry Clay, John M. Clayton, and Robert C. Winthrop would alone indicate its distinguishing features; while the single incident of the compromise measure brought forward by Crittenden in 1861, and the correspondence it called forth, constitute a chapter of history that describes the standing and character of the man, and the true nature of the task which he honestly and soberly endeavored to perform with inadequate instruments. Much of this correspondence was used in Mrs. Chapman's "Life of John J. Crittenden," but less than one half of the collection appeared in the volume. There are many letters, speeches, and state papers by Crittenden; and the following list of his correspondents, representing series of letters and not mere individual specimens, will point out his connections:

Rives, William Schley, Alexander H. Stephens, Winfield Scott, C. S. Todd, and Robert Toombs. In addition to this correspondence there are some legal opinions by Crittenden, many of his own letters, land warrants signed by Patrick Henry and Beverley Randolph, and some papers relating to the boundary line between Kentucky and Tennessee, Crittenden having been one of the commissioners.

An important acquisition by purchase was the papers of Duncan McArthur and William Allen, of Ohio, obtained from Mrs. Effie Allen Scott, of Chillicothe, Ohio. McArthur and Allen papers McArthur was for many years a surveyor in the new territory, an eager land purchaser, a member of the State legislature, a brigadier-general in the war of 1812, succeeding William Henry Harrison to the chief command of the western army, a member of Congress, and governor of the State. The historical value of the collection is thus threefold:

(1) As a picture of a new territory rapidly being parceled out to settlers and gradually taking definite geographical shape. The hundreds of notes of surveys, plats of lands and of districts, land documents, tax sales and returns, and other land papers give a full picture of a community where land represented the most general "commodity," where acres represented almost the only form of wealth and the medium of exchange. Claims and warrants passed from hand to hand, and the larger forms of indebtedness were settled in land. No other State than Ohio could afford so early, few could give so full a record of such a community. The autographic value is slight, but the social value is large, and gives to the Library material which covers an unusual subject in a thorough manner. It is very probable that as time passes this part of the collection will be consulted for family and genealogical history, as it is rich in local names and descriptions. For legal form and procedure on land questions involving the use or ownership of land, the papers will be of service.

(2) The military papers. Duncan McArthur was active as colonel and brigadier-general, and retained his interest in military matters for some years after the peace. There are a large number of Army returns, reports of officers at various posts of the Northwest, and general correspondence with his superiors at Washington and the subordinate officers under his immediate control. General orders from the War Department, his own orders, and those issued at the different commands are full; and the series of letters from Croghan, Cass, Butler, Harrison, and many others not only relate events of the campaign, but express the hopes and fears of the writers, and give the accounts of daily camp routine and personal matters that make good historical material.

(3) The political papers. As a member of Congress, McArthur was in close touch with the political leaders of Ohio, and after his return to his State he conducted a wide correspondence with the public men at Washington on national politics and public measures. Many of his own letters are included, picturing the social and political life in Washington, and written to his wife, express his opinions of men and his views on current topics with a freedom that add much to the value of the records. A Federalist, he favored internal improvements, and the State he represented was keenly alive to the importance, if not to the necessity, of such improvements upon a large scale. Again, the collections (of the strict constructionists) already in the Library, who opposed the idea that the Federal Government had the power to undertake this policy, are supplemented and explained by the McArthur papers. It is estimated that there are about 10,000 papers in this collection.

With the McArthur papers were obtained the papers of William Allen, of Ohio, at one time prominent in the politics of that State, and a character of national importance. He was a Representative in Congress in 1833 and Senator for two terms, 1837-1848. Retiring from public life he did not again hold office until elected governor of the State in 1873. He was one of the leaders in the money discussion of the day, and represented the "Ohio idea" of a government unredeemable paper currency. His papers are almost entirely confined to the periods of his service as Senator and Governor, and number about 1,600 pieces. Some MS. speeches and drafts of letters point out his own work, but the more important portion of the collection consists of letters from his correspondents on political matters in Ohio. Of local interest are the minutes of meetings and muster rolls of the Chillicothe Light Infantry Blues, 1821-1834, of which Allen was a member. A number of papers bearing upon land surveys and settlement supplement those in the McArthur collection.

From Miss Mary W. Taylor, of Washington, was purchased a collection of about 1,200 manuscripts and broadsides of Virginian origin. The manuscripts were largely the correspondence of Garrett Minor, of Louisa county, who served in the militia in the war of 1812, and David Watson who was for some years a member of the Virginia assembly. They extend from 1768 to 1821 and include the military returns and orders of the war period, personal letters and papers relating to local legislation. A diary for 1813, while the writer was in service, and two roster books with general orders of David Watson's troop of cavalry for the same year are notable pieces, as are the notes of Bishop Madison's lectures on natural philosophy at William and Mary college (1796), and a ledger of accounts, 1765-1792. Of greater value are the 350 Virginia broadsides, comprising war, political, legislative, and executive issues, which have become very difficult to obtain, and many of which are, in all probability, unique. The original forms of bills introduced into the Assembly, and the printed papers relating to the adoption of the Federal Constitution in Virginia are particularly serviceable.

Barbados records

A unique set of books was obtained by the purchase of eleven volumes which had belonged to Charles Pinfold, Governor of Barbados, 1756-1766. They consist of original papers, transcripts of legislative journals, and printed laws prepared for the use of the Governor, and contain broadsides and manuscript notes. The period covers that of the war with France, and thus has an intimate relation with the course of political events in the West Indies and on the continent of North America.

The manuscript volumes are:

I. Minutes of the President and Council, October 28, 1735-July 15, 1736; with a list of fees collected in the courts and executive offices of the island.

II. A transcript of the journal of the proceedings of the General Assembly of Barbados, August 31, 1756-March 18, 1765; and of the Committee of public accounts, May 17, 1757-December 8, 1763.

III. Minutes of the Council from August 10, 1756-May 27, 1766. 2 volumes.

IV. Royal orders and instructions, signed by the King, issued to Governor Pinfold, March 16, 1756; minutes of the meetings of the President and commander in chief in council, July 15, 1766-May 27, 1767; and extracts from the Council books in Barbados, October 13, 1641-November 27, 1739.

V. Letter books of Governor Pinfold, August 14, 1756-May 25, 1766. 3 volumes.

VI. Transcript of laws 1761-1766.

The printed books are:

What remain of the Papers of Franklin Pierce were obtained from Mr. Kirk D. Pierce, of Hillsboro Bridge, N. H., a relative of the President. These papers are but a small portion of the original mass, the greater part of which was destroyed by fire; but they contain matter of interest and not a few letters of value. Of Pierce's own writings there are many political letters, some military letters written from Mexico, and some drafts of state papers. Among his correspondents may be named Nathaniel Hawthorne, Edmund Burke, Jefferson Davis, Charles O'Connor, Caleb Cushing, and C. G. Atherton.

In 1901 the Library possessed the papers of no President of the United States. It now holds the papers of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Van Buren, Polk, Pierce, and Johnson.

O'Callaghan letters

The correspondence of Edmund Bailey O'Callaghan, in 12 volumes, is that of an early collector of Americana, and a writer well known for his bibliographical knowledge. The correspondence deals with the rarities in early American books, with the historical material on America in European archives, with editions of the Bible, and with many matters connected with book gathering. Among the names to be found in the 2,000 letters are: James Lenox, John Carter Brown, George Bancroft, John Gilmary Shea, J. Carson Brevoort, George Livermore, William Gowans, Henry C. Murphy, and S. F. Haven. There are many letters from William L. McKenzie, the Canadian, whose stormy political career is one of the picturesque incidents in the history of the Province.

Burmese sacred writings

An opportunity was presented to obtain some manuscripts of the sacred writings of Burma. No set of these writings was to be found in the United States, and the only collection of size was at Brown University, Providence, R. I. The opportunity thus offered was taken, and through the efforts of the Rev. W. H. S. Hascall, of the missionary service in Lower Burma, a very good set of the more important of these writings was secured. They are ola manuscripts (on palm leaves), and the following list and explanation, prepared by Mr. Hascall, will indicate the nature of these books, their number and relations to the general religious literature of British Burma. It has been asserted that the writings of Buddha have undergone less change and deterioration in the Burmese texts than in those of Western India, and are therefore more valuable for the purposes of study. It is a matter for congratulation that these examples have been obtained, as their value is rapidly increasing in the East, and good specimens are becoming rarer each year. In nearly every instance the cloth wrapper and embroidered band accompanied the writing.

Of the Bidegat (Pitakat) or sacred scriptures of the Buddhists there are three series of writings on the sayings of Buddha: Thote (3 volumes), We-nee (5 volumes), and Ah-be-dah-ma (7 volumes). In each series are to be found: A. The Pali text of the Sayings of Gautama Buddha; B. The nait-the-ya, or translation of these sayings into Burmese; and C. The ah-ta-ga-ta's, or inspired commentaries on the original Pali text, composed by Rahandas, or beings about to attain Neikban or Nirvana. In the Thote series there is a fourth division, D, of Te-kas, commentaries supplementary to those of the Rahandas, and composed by less exalted beings. The Library possesses the following:

Thote:

- I. A. Thote the let kon.
 - B. Thote the let kon nait the ya.
 - C. Thote the let kon Ah ta ga ta.
 - D. Thote the let kon te ka.
- II. A. Thote ma ha wa.
 - B. Thote ma ha wa nait the ya.
 - C. Thote ma ha wa Ah ta ga ta.
 - D. Thote ma ha wa te ka.
- III. A. Thote pa day ya.
 - B. Thote pa day ya nait the ya.
 - C. Thote pa day ya ah te ga ta.
 - D. Thote pa day ya te kah.

We-nee:

- I. A. Pa ra ze ka.
B. Pa ra ze ka nait the ya.
C. Pa ra ze ka ta ga ta
- II. A. Pa sait.
B. Pa sait nait the ya.
C. Pa sait ta ga ta.
- III. A. Ma ha wa.

C. Pa re wa ta ga ta.

Ah-be-dah-ma:

- I. A. Dhamma thin ga ne.
B. Dhamma thin ga ne nait the ya.
- II. A. We bin.
B. We bin nait the ya.
- III. A. Dah tu ga ta.
B. Dah tu ga ta nait the ya.
C. Tha ra ta de pa ne te ka.
- IV. A. Bo go la pe nyat.

C. Tay ra tha kan te ka.
- V. A. Ka ta wu tu.
B. Ka ta nait the ya.
C. Ah ta tha te ne ah ta ga ta.
- VI. A. Ya miki.
B. Ya miki nait the ya.
C. Tha maw ha we naw de ah ta ga ta.
- VII. A. Pa dahn.
B. Pa dahn nait the ya.
C. Py ni sa ma gyo ah ta ga ta.

In addition to this series are the following:

The great Zats, telling of the previous existences of Gautama Buddha. There are in all some 550 of these

Zats, from which a selection has been made of the more important records, viz:

Tay mi.	San da kom ma.
Zaneka.	Nah ra da.
Thu wanna shan.	We du ra.
Nay mi.	Way than da ya.
Ma hau.	We tha ni bat.
Thu ri dat.	Boo re dat.

And certain examples of other books of doctrine or of ritual:

1. Ad me maw da na. Probably a dedication service.
2. Day tha na. A book of doctrine.
3. We ni ya thin gyo. An abridgment of the We-nee.
4. In go ni ti ku. A Pali text.
5. Bo de daw the ka. On divine duties.
6. Pay ta wu tu. A narrative from the Buddhist scriptures.
7. Non te ka. Concerning spirit (?).
8. Ah ga ti di po ni. Discourse on infidelity (?).
9. The re ma ha mai ya. History of the mother of Gautama.
10. Da ma pa da. Discourse on the Law.
11. Khyan u gata. Poetry.
12. Ma hoo la Day tha na. Discourse.
13. Thu net. Proverbs.
14. Tha maw ha we naw ti ni. Te ka. An uninspired commentary on one of the sacred books.
15. Ma naw ta tha. Part I. A treatise on the mind (?).
16. Bo de da win. A history of the Buddha.
17. A. Kin sa. } A book of instructions
B. Kin sa Nait tha ya. } for monks.
18. A. Thad da. }
B. Thad da Nait tha ya. } Books of Pali
C. Thad da pote sit nya wa. } grammar.

| C. Thin gyo Let yo a kouk nya wa. | | ics (?). |

As part of the same collection were obtained three examples of the Kamawa, or ordination service of the priests, one on wood and one on a composition metal which contains silver. The third is a very beautiful and old specimen of the service on strips of ivory with the ancient round Pali text in heavy lacquer.

It will probably be long before a large and important collection of Orientalia can be obtained, but the foundations are being laid, and the Rockhill gifts with these Burmese manuscripts are notable beginnings.

Philippine broad-sides

A number of broadsides have been obtained and a large quantity have been transferred to the Division from the general collections. A list of the more important acquisitions is to be found in Appendix VII. The most valuable belong to the colonial and revolutionary periods. The most curious were found in a file of Philippine newspapers, purchased in New York, and comprised thirty-two of the orders, decrees, and proclamations issued by Aguinaldo and his opponents. This fortunate find deserves to be listed:

1898. June 1. Order of Aguinaldo for punishment of treason and spies. In Spanish and Tagalog.
 June 23. Order of Aguinaldo. In Tagalog.
 June 30. Address to Spaniards on the Philippine revolution. In Spanish.
 June 30. Address (unsigned). In Tagalog.
 July 15. Order of Aguinaldo on administrative functions. In Spanish and Tagalog.
 Sept. 23. Notice by Aguinaldo of the Journal "El Herald de la Revolucion." In Spanish.
 Oct. 22. Address of Aglipay to the Philippine clergy. In Spanish.

1899. Jan. 5. Address of Aguinaldo to the civilized powers explaining the rupture with the United States. In Spanish.
- Jan. 9. Official communication of the creation of a council to the Governor. Signed by Mabini. In Spanish.
- Feb. 16. Decree of Aguinaldo on treasonable acts. In Spanish. A translation into Tagalog, and issued at Nueva Cáceres, March 17, 1899, by Estanislao Legaspi.
- Mar. 11-23. Six general orders of General Flores. In Spanish.
- Mar. 19. General order by Aguinaldo. In Spanish.
- May 20-24. Two decrees of Baldomero Aguinaldo. In Spanish.
- June 2. Address to the Philippine people by the Governor's council. In Spanish.
- Aug. 17. Decree of Aguinaldo on the outrages committed on the people by the flying columns of troops. In Spanish.
1900. Jan. 1. Political address of Marcial Calleja. In Spanish.
- June 21. Proclamation of General McArthur on amnesty. In Tagalog.

The following are without date:

- Address of Vincente Lukban y Rilles. In Spanish.
- Address of Aguinaldo. In Tagalog.
- Constitution of the "Comité Político Filipino."
- Address of Estanislao Legaspi y Rivera to the inhabitants of the Kamarines. In Spanish.
- Address of Ambrosio Flores to the Philippine army. In Spanish and Tagalog.
- Programmes of fêtes at Nueva Cáceres, 1895-1897 (3).
- And six issues of "El Busilis de Albay," a manuscript newspaper, in Spanish, issued by the Revolutionary party.

MSS. transferred from the Department of State

Under the Executive order of March 9, 1903 (see Report, 1903, p. 24), the papers of Thomas Jefferson and of James Madison have been transferred from the Department of State to the Library of Congress. The Jefferson collection was transferred as a whole; some records of the Constitutional Convention of 1787 were retained from the Madison collection. The Executive order has thus been complied with, and as a matter of record a list is given of the collections transferred under its operation:

1. Papers of the Continental Congress (except the diplomatic or foreign correspondence), 385 volumes.
2. Papers of George Washington, 330 volumes, and many loose papers.
3. Papers of Thomas Jefferson, 172 volumes.
4. Papers of James Madison, 84 volumes.
5. Papers of James Monroe, 22 volumes.
6. The Stevens collection of Benjamin Franklin papers, 14 volumes.
7. Papers of Alexander Hamilton, 65 volumes.

The transfer has been of advantage, as three of the collections have gained largely by additions. The Library already possessed a good number of Washington papers, some 2,000 Jefferson papers, and much obtained from the papers of Mrs. Madison. All of these collections, the importance of which can hardly be overestimated from the standpoint of history, are now in a most favorable situation in that they can grow by additions as opportunity offers. The Library is not in a position to compete in the open market for manuscripts, nor will its funds permit large expenditures in that line of purchases. For these reasons it has lost many opportunities in the past to obtain good material, and will undoubtedly be at some disadvantage in the future. As yet it can not buy, as do the long established and richly stored libraries of Europe, such rarities as they need, and for which their funds permit large prices, because their accumulations leave these funds comparatively free. The demands upon the Library of Congress from many directions leave little or nothing for obtaining the really desirable and increasingly rare Americana, and the same limitations restrict the purchase of manuscripts. Every fair offer is considered, but it is a matter of regret that every offer does not come within the competence of the Library.

Nine volumes of early records of the Post Office in the United States were deposited in the Library by the Auditor of the Post Office department. They show the simple beginnings of a great governmental activity.

In my report for 1904 I described the status of the Spanish papers sent to the Library from New Mexico. Learning of a quantity of similar records in the office of the United States surveyor general in Tallahassee, Fla., the Department of the Interior was asked if there were any obstacles to depositing them in the Library for arrangement and safe keeping. The Department not only accepted the suggestion, but further stated that it would be of public advantage if the deposit were made a permanent one, providing always that no papers relating to land titles should be so retained. Under this condition the papers were sent to the Library, and the permanent deposit will permit the institution to treat it in the same manner as its other collections are treated before they are made available for historical ends. The task of arranging, repairing, mounting, indexing, and binding will be undertaken in due season. The papers number 62,224 pieces, with some volumes bound under the Spanish rule. The number of papers in the volumes can hardly be determined as they now are, as the polilla busily bored through and through an entire volume, and even the parchment covers, until a sheet looks like a bit of lace work. The damage thus done is in some cases irreparable, and forcibly illustrates the risks and dangers attending the care and preservation of manuscripts in semi-tropical or tropical climates where a rainy season and heat favor the development of these destructive pests.

The nature of this collection of Spanish documents may be seen from the following selected list, taken from the labels of the bundles, of which there were 372 in all:

1. Correspondence with British authorities.
2. Councils of war, royal regulations and orders, etc.
3. Documents of the delivery of East Florida to the United States.
4. Embargo and revolution of 1795.
5. Indian presents.
6. Louisiana, Pensacola, Apalache, and Indians.
7. Memorials and concessions.
8. Negro titles, runaways, etc.
9. Oaths of allegiance.
10. Plans of fortifications and public buildings.
11. Proclamations, edicts, etc.
12. Secret correspondence of Captain-General, and a large quantity of the correspondence of the Captain General with the home government, the Viceroy of Mexico, and his subordinate officers.

Mention should also be made of a copy of a "Historia de las Islas Marianas desde llegada de los Españoles hasta hoy, 15 Mayo, 1870," written by Filipa María de la Corte y Ruano Calderon. This was received from Commander George L. Dyer, U. S. Navy, commander of Guam.

Work of the Division of Manuscripts

In the last year the Division has repaired and mounted, preparatory for binding, 9,444 separate pieces, involving great care and minute attention to actual and possible injuries. The size, weight, and probable use of a document determine what repair or guards shall be given to it, quite as much as actual injuries through rust, damp, or past handling. The use of paper (much employed about 1830-1840), which in time becomes so brittle as to forbid so much as lifting a sheet, imposes upon the Library more time and expense than are demanded by the strong, handmade papers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. An entire volume of the early commercial correspondence of George Washington, containing 150 large folio leaves, was found to be breaking, and each page was covered with crêpeline to save it from further damage. In addition to the repairs of manuscripts there have been mounted for binding 1,627 songs, Northern and Confederate—a collection of local and personal interest. Good progress has been made in mounting the Papers of the Continental Congress, and an additional volume has been prepared from certain unarranged documents, being the oaths of allegiance taken by the civil officers of the Continental Congress—an invaluable guide for judging the handwriting of the papers emanating from that body. The credentials of the delegates to the Congress are also being mounted. The Belcher-Waldron letters (principally drafts) are ready for binding. In each case the task of the repairer was exacting, but the final form of the papers fully justifies the time and labor expended upon them.

The publications of the Division in the past year were confined to the issue of the Journals of the Continental Congress for 1775, in two volumes, and two calendars. The auction price obtained for the former editions of the Journals (the originals, 1774-1789, bringing from $30 to $68, the Folwell edition, from $16 to $30, and the reprint from $8 to $14); the increasing rarity of sets (hardly a dozen sets being recorded in the sales of the last twenty years), and the notorious incompleteness and inaccuracy of these earlier editions, pointed to the necessity for a new, full, and collated text, based upon the original records. The matter was explained in my report for 1904 (p. 69), and the issue of three volumes has proved the opportunity for a public service. The size of the edition was limited to one that could be covered by the general allotment for printing for the Library, and the distribution made was intended to place the volumes where they would be most accessible for students and investigators. After sending a copy to each Senator and Representative and to each of the leading public and institutional libraries in the United States, and a lesser number abroad, a part of the edition was placed for sale with the Superintendent of Public Documents in order that he might supply those who could make use of the work and whose claims for a free copy could not be met by the Library. More than 150 sets have already been disposed of through that agency.

*Calendar of Vernon-Wager
papers*

The Calendar of the Vernon-Wager papers, prepared by Mr. John C. Fitzpatrick, was issued during the last year. This describes an important collection relating to British naval operations in the West Indies, and containing documents and letters from 1654 to 1753, with some papers relating to the expulsion of the Acadians and to military matters in Canada and Virginia. Obtained by Peter Force from the library of George Chalmers, whose services in preserving historical material on colonial administration in America always call for praise, these papers are now for the first time made available for historical purposes. The volume contains facsimile reproductions of two letters of Admiral Charles Wager and Vice Admiral Edward Vernon, and of Wager's plan for an attack on Manila, 1739.

*Chronological list of Monroe
papers*

There was also issued a Chronological List of the Papers of James Monroe, prepared by Mr. Wilmer Ross Leech. The larger part of these papers was transferred from the Department of State; but the list includes also such other Monroe manuscripts as are to be found in the various collections in the Library of Congress. It supplements the alphabetical calendar issued by the Department of State, by enabling the student to consult readily the documents covering a certain year or a period of time. The journal kept by Monroe during the negotiations for the purchase of Louisiana in 1803 was reproduced in facsimile for this volume as the document of highest interest at this particular time.

The calendar of the Benjamin Franklin collection has been completed and is now in the hands of the printer. Calendars in preparation The listing of the Andrew Jackson papers is progressing as rapidly as can be expected, but much remains to be done. Brief calendars have also been prepared of the Edward Preble, the John M. Clayton, and the Franklin Pierce collections. Some progress has been made toward such a calendar of the John Fitch, the Caleb B. Smith, and the naval papers (including two volumes of letters of John Paul Jones) in the Papers of the Continental Congress. A calendar is well in hand of the correspondence between General Washington and the Continental Congress. This will cover one of the most interesting as well as valuable correspondences of the Revolution, including, as it does, many inclosures, letters, documents, petitions, and resolutions of the Congress. The number of main entries in this calendar made to June 30, 1905, is 3,200, which cover the letters from Washington and their inclosures, and part of the replies. The total number of entries required will be about 5,000, and the work will probably be completed in the current year.

As some change has been made in the extent or scope CALENDARS:
Method of compilation of the calendars prepared in this Division, the present offers a fitting opportunity to explain the methods. The Division has issued two most elaborate calendars of mate-

CALENDARS:
Method of compilation

rial in its possession, that of the Washington papers, 1901, and that of John Paul Jones, 1903. The Jones calendar contained 883 entries and occupied the labor of an expert two full years to complete, allowance being made for interruptions. The Washington list demanded nearly the same amount of time and labor. The cost of calendaring was thus excessive, and if applied generally would frequently exceed the value of the collection treated. Nor has experience shown the advantage of such minute descriptions of documents, the entry in the calendar sometimes containing more words than the document itself. The investigator can never be satisfied with any summary of contents, but must refer to the original letter, and nothing short of a full publication can meet his needs. In place of a full calendar a partial one is now made, in which only the leading names and subjects are noted. The names of the writer and of the person to whom written, the place and time of writing, and a brief reference to the matter or contents of the paper—these entries are sufficient to serve as a general guide to the nature of the collection. The time saved is of importance, a few months sufficing for the preparation of such a partial calendar, and three or four collections can be made available within the same time as was required formerly by one collection.

In the arrangement of collections the progress has been as follows: The Andrew Johnson, Salmon P. Chase, and Neil Jamieson collections have been arranged chronologically, and, in proper manila jackets, are open to investigators. The Crittenden and McArthur papers are ready for this arrangement, and the new Van Buren papers are almost ready for handling. As the letters are received, as a rule, folded or in the original coverings, they must be first opened and pressed before they can be arranged. The usual number of inclosures, of undated letters and papers, of newspaper clippings and fragments, demand much time and entail much trouble and research.

Announcement was made in my last report (p. 70) of an important undertaking in the transcribing and editing for publication of the Records of the Virginia Company of London. Much labor has been expended upon it, and, as the transcription is ready for the press, an opportunity will, I hope, be found for printing during the current year this most important record of one of the earliest settlements of the English in America. The introduction and a very full bibliography have been prepared and are in type, and will prove of the highest utility in describing the important documents of the Company's career, their various forms or versions, their location in public and private collections, and their relations to the Company and the general history of the time. More than 800 separate titles are thus fully described, and they apply to the period 1600 to 1626, or only about a quarter of a century. The list must be regarded as one of the most detailed and extensive examples of bibliography ever undertaken in this country, and to the historian and collector (and libraries are now the great collectors) will prove an invaluable guide.

The English archives proved unexpectedly rich in material throwing light upon the proceedings of the Company and the relations of the shareholders or subscribers to the undertaking, and many new letters, documents, accounts, and memoranda were discovered by Miss Susan M. Kingsbury, under whose editing the volumes will be printed. The courteous attention to her wishes in behalf of the Library shown by the authorities of the Public Record office, the British Museum, the Bodleian library, and Cambridge University library are gratefully acknowledged, and, by the free access to their rich stores of printed and manuscript material, the importance of the publication was recognized and its greater completeness assured. By transcripts and by photographic reproduction the Library of Congress has added to its collections what was important for the particular purpose of the publication of these records, and it is thus very rich in what relates to the earliest years of Virginian history. To show that the printed material is not neglected I may note in passing the acquisition of the following very rare early tracts relating to Virginia:

A True and sincere declaration of the purpose and ends of the plantation begun in Virginia. London, 1610.

The New life of Virginea. London, 1612.

His Maiesties Graciovvs letter to the Earle of South-Hampton, . . . commanding the present setting vp of silke works, and planting of vines in Virginia. London, 1622.

Virgo Triumphans: or, Virginia richly and truly valued. London, 1650.

Transcripts from European archives

In this connection may be mentioned another undertaking of the Library. On the early history of the United States, when they were colonial possessions of various European states, the records available in this country are few in number, not, consecutive or complete in time, and so scattered as to make reference difficult and costly and an advantageous use in writing history almost impossible. The Library receives many demands for these early records from those interested, and it has been obliged to admit its inability to supply what was needed or even to indicate, save in very general terms, the probable location of the records which would give the required information. In European archives these records exist, and, so far as the proceedings of public bodies (council and legislature) are concerned, are quite complete. The correspondence of governors and the officers of the Crown, the records of courts and inquisitions, the returns of trade and revenue, and the descriptions of the colonies and their resources, which were made from time to time, supplement the legislative acts, and these may themselves be explained and augmented by the great mass of miscellaneous papers which have, by one means or another, found a place in the public records. All of this material is the raw material of our colonial history.

It is eminently desirable to have transcripts of the more important of these papers in some place of deposit in the United States. Each State might secure what is of value to its own history, but this would involve much duplication, a vastly greater expense, and in the end a marked absence of completeness, as well as a want of uniformity in methods of transcription and of publication. This manner of obtaining copies can be satisfactory neither on the score of accuracy nor on that of expense. Many copyists and many copies of the same document offer every opportunity for error, and the mere task of selecting what should be copied demands a knowledge and judgment difficult to obtain when confined to the records of one State or Colony, but more easily and certainly exercised when permitted to labor for a general purpose and on the general mass of records. When obtained by the States, the various transcripts would be kept in many widely separated places, and would not be available for students. In meeting the problem of the extent to which the Library of Congress could undertake to make good the defects of the existing methods, I have sought the advice and cooperation of the Bureau of historical research of the Carnegie Institution and of the council of the American Historical association. After careful consideration it was determined to make a beginning in the English archives, by obtaining transcripts from the British Museum, and the Bodleian library, Oxford. The documents to be so copied were selected by Prof. Charles M. Andrews, of Bryn Mawr, who has for some years made a special study of American records in the British archives, and the actual work of transcription was given to Messrs. B. F. Stevens and Brown, who have long been engaged in such labors and to whose knowledge and courtesy many writers and students in the United States are under obligations. About five volumes of transcripts have been received, and the manner of performance has been entirely satisfactory. By continuing to obtain some volumes each year the Library will in a few years be in possession of transcripts of a large number of these valuable records and in a form which will be available to the investigator. The advantages attained are: the employment of skilled copyists who have long been engaged in this particular kind of work; supervision by a responsible firm, whose interest in the records has been of long standing; uniformity of methods of transcription; absence of duplication; and the concentration of all this material in one depository, where are also to be found the means of cataloguing and preserving it. The public utility of this work is beyond any question, and there remained to be determined only the details of an intelligent system of operation. In connection with this may be mentioned a list of transcripts from British records in American libraries now being prepared by the Bureau of historical research of the Carnegie Institution. This list will serve as a guide to this Library in directing the operations of its copyists.

Journal of Baron von Closen

Through the efforts of Mr. Clarence Winthrop Bowen, the loan of a collection of records of Baron von Closen, aide de camp to Rochambeau during his campaign in America (1780-1781), was obtained to be shown at St.

Louis as part of the exhibit of the Library of Congress. Permission to transcribe the Journal of von Closen for the years 1780-1783, covering his stay in the United States and his visit to the West Indies, was courteously given by the present owner, Baron von Closen Gunderrode, of Castle Gern, near Engelfulden, Bavaria, and transcripts in two volumes were made.

The manuscripts exhibited at St. Louis last year were not sent to the Portland Exposition, but a new selection of documents was made, sufficient to give examples of the more notable collections and of the methods of repairing applied. The contents of the exhibition cases for manuscripts in the Library have been entirely changed since January to indicate the growing richness of the historical records in the collections. To each of the following collections a large case has been devoted: Washington, Jefferson, Continental Congress, Jackson, Van Buren, Polk, Johnson, Revolutionary broadsides, and papers relating to the framing and adoption of the Federal Constitution. Smaller cases are devoted to Franklin, John Fitch, Monroe, Orderly books of the Revolution, Lincoln, Chase, Pierce, the Adamses, John Paul Jones, Thornton, American authors (Field collection), and relics of the Southern Confederacy. This exhibition can not but exercise an educational influence and has attracted much attention by the high quality of the material shown. It is gratifying to know that this material is but a selection, and but indifferently represents the far greater wealth of historical records in the Division of Manuscripts of the Library.

Lord Howe's collection of maps

An acquisition of extraordinary interest was a collection of 72 maps, formed by Lord Howe, commander of the English fleet in America in 1776–1777, consisting of manuscript maps and tracings of various places on the American coast, the West Indies, and the Philippines. In the collection there are found several maps which were probably used by Lord Howe in his naval operations during the American Revolution. The maps having to do with the Revolution are seven in number, namely:

A sketch of the navigation from Swan pt. to the river Elk at the head of Chesapeak bay. 1777.

A draught of Delaware Bay. [1775?]

Plan of part of the river Delaware from Chester to Philadelphia in which is mark'd the position of his majesty's ships on the 15th of November 1777.

Soundings of the bar of Sandy Hook at low water. [1775?]

[A map of New Jersey extending from Sandy Hook to Little Egg harbour. 1770?]

Part of Long Island and the coast eastward to the shoals of Nantucket. [1775?]

Buzzards bay and shoals of Nantucket. [By Lieut. Knight. 1778.]

The maps relating to the Philippines include two illustrating the British capture of Manila, 1762.

A detailed list and description of the collection is given in Appendix VIII of this report.

Other acquisitions worthy of special note are Nicholson's Draught of the Great Bay of Manila, [1776?]; Longworth's Plan of the city of New York, 1804; two maps by Visscher, Verovering vande silver vloot inde bay Matanca, 1628, and [Matanzas bay]; Paz, Atlas geográfico é histórico de la república de Colombia, 1889; Ortelius, Theatre de l'univers, 1598; Wit, Atlas [1675?]; Sanson, Atlas nouveau, 2 vols., 1692-96; a collection of Mexican admiralty charts, 1824; Ptolemy's Geographia, 1522, Tabulae geographicae, 1578.

The Library has the following editions of Ptolemy: 1475, 1480?, 1486, 1490, 1508, 1511, 1513, 1522, 1525, 1535, 1540, 1541, 1542, 1545, 1547, 1552, 1561, 1562, 1574, 1578, 1584, 1596, 1597, 1598, 1599, 1605, 1617, 1619, 1620, 1695, 1730.

The editions to be acquired are those of: 1478, 1462 [1482?], 1482, 1507, 1514, 1520, 1564, 1608.

There is a gradual decrease each year in the number of atlases purchased, as the Library collection is already so extensive that it is becoming the exception to find desired material in the ordinary sale catalogue.

DIVISION OF MAPS:
Publication

The only publication issued from this Division during the year has been "The Kohl collection (now in the Library of Congress) of maps relating to America. By Justin Winsor. A reprint of bibliographical contribution number 19 of the Library of Harvard University. With index." Since its transfer to the Library of Congress, this collection has been used so extensively by students that a reprint, with complete index, of Dr. Winsor's description was deemed advisable for use in this connection and as a reference work for historical purposes.

A manuscript reference list has been made of all the ordnance survey sheets of Great Britain.

Of publications in preparation the most important is the List of Atlases in the Library of Congress. For accuracy this list requires a care in examination of the material not reducible by reference to existing published sources of information. As a rule the date of publication is not given. Inserted maps, foreign to the publication, are continually found, rendering copious descriptive notes very necessary. For example, several unique water color views of Porto Rico, made in 1824, were recently found in an old atlas of maps published by the Spanish Government. Descriptive notes are especially necessary in connection with American maps as, owing to continual vandalism, it will soon be almost impossible to find a perfect atlas in the market. Such detail is in the first instance expensive; but the pecuniary saving to the Library ultimately effected by it is shown daily.

There is in preparation a list of manuscript maps relating to America, having special reference to the early Indian wars and the War of the Revolution. A new edition of the "List of Works Relating to Cartography," compiled by the Chief of the Division, and first issued in 1901, has been greatly advanced towards completion.

This does not include the accessions to class MT (musical instruction) numbering 1,447 volumes and pieces, of which 348 were purchased. This section now contains a total of 7,722 volumes and pieces.

The Division of Music has also in its custody the Library's collection of literature of music. Inclusive of the accessions of the past fiscal year (1,050 volumes and pamphlets; of which 819 by purchase) this collection now comprises 5,783 volumes and pamphlets.

The grand total of volumes, pamphlets, and pieces in custody of the Division of Music on July 1, 1905, numbered 422,857.

The accessions to class M (Music) have strengthened to a very notable degree the collection of compositions by eminent composers of the last fifty years (e. g., Chaikovskii, Liszt, Brahms, Bruckner, César Franck, Dvořák, d'Indy, Debussy, Richard Strauss, and others). The collection of full scores of operas has been further developed, and not a few rare pieces have been added to the collection of Americana. Among these last the autograph score of Edward MacDowell's Indian Suite, presented to the Library by the composer, and four autograph sonatas for pianoforte by Alexander Reinagle, presented to the Library by his grandson, Mr. Lewis J. Davis, deserve particular mention.

In the field of the literature and theory of music considerable attention has been paid to material published before 1800. Various other gaps have been filled, and the important current literature has not been neglected. On the whole, the advance made during the past fiscal year has contributed perceptibly to the development of the Division of Music on a large and systematic scale.

The usual list of accessions is omitted from this report, as the reference lists to be published in the near future will sufficiently represent the new acquisitions.

The work of reclassifying the collections in the Division of Music is not quite completed, about one third in section MT and one eighth in M remaining unclassified. Preparations are being made to recatalogue the sections of literature and theory of music. The bulk of the music remains still uncatalogued; but preparations are being made to catalogue temporarily the more important classes.

Use of Music
Division

The total number of readers during the past fiscal year was 3,444. The total number of volumes and pieces supplied was 13,404 (music, 8,534; literature of music, 3,237; instruction, 1,633). In 1904, the Division of Music supplied 11,776 volumes, etc., to 3,459 readers. By way of comparison, the chief of the Division notes from the report of 1904 of the Musik Bibliothek Peters, in Leipzig, that that excellent institution was visited in 1904 by 4,068 readers, who consulted 11,673 volumes.

As yet no publications have issued from this Division. A reference list of our collection of full scores of operas, now remarkable, may be printed during the coming year. Prior to his entrance upon service with us, the Chief of the Division, Mr. Sonneck, compiled a bio-bibliographical list of American composers prior to 1800. Representing careful and laborious research which utilized all accessible collections, in a field heretofore practically ignored, this list is a valuable contribution to the literature of American bibliography and to the record of American achievement in an art important to civilization. It would have formed a suitable publication of the Library. The depletion of the Library's allotment for printing prevented us from undertaking it last year; but it has now been issued at the expense of its author as a private publication. Mr. Sonneck recommends that a "union list" (short title) of music and books on music, published or in manuscript before 1800, and still extant in America, be undertaken by the Library in cooperation with other institutions having collections.

A most important acquisition to the collection of prints Gifts was received by gift from the German Government, consisting of 761 facsimile reproductions of copper and wood engravings by the old masters, published under authority of the Government and by the Government press, and edited by Dr. F. Lippmann, director of the print cabinet of the Royal Museum at Berlin. A full list of these is given in Appendix IX. Preceding is a list of the Chalcographie du Louvre, received two years ago, which represents a correspondingly interesting and instructive undertaking on the part of the French Government.

Interesting collections of photographs, representing industries, libraries, and universities (204 prints) in France were received from the Government of France and similar photographs (88 prints) from the Government of the Argentine Republic. They were formerly on exhibition at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

DIVISION OF PRINTS:
Purchases

An unusual addition is that of a collection of 80 sheets of rubbings from Chinese monuments, collected by Mr. Bayley Willis, of the United States Geological Survey, while carrying on geological investigations in China.

The chief of the Division, Mr. Parsons, gave a valuable collection of 515 etchings, by Callot and Della Bella.

The purchases of prints during the year have been limited to the following collections, viz: (a) Two hundred Arundel Society prints; (b) 2,000 photographic portraits of celebrated Americans (taken from the Brady negatives); (c) a collection formed by Mr. William Eleroy Curtis, illustrative of the life and activities of Christopher Columbus. It includes among its 1,700 items, photographic views of the various places associated with Columbus, and various portraits.

Publications

The Gardiner Greene Hubbard Catalog, descriptive of the collection of prints presented to the Library of Congress, was published in April, 1905, in an edition of 500 handmade and 1,000 antique paper copies. The volume consists of 540 pages, with an etched portrait of Mr. Hubbard, his book plate, and ten reproductions of rare prints. The arrangement of the Catalog is as follows: Prefatory note, the gift, sketch of Gardiner Greene Hubbard, abbreviations and authorities, catalogue of engravers (alphabetically arranged), original drawings, index of engravers (chronologically arranged by schools), index of artists, portrait index, list of authorities, additions and corrections.

The paper, type, and general form are excellent, making unquestionably the best piece of work the Government Printing Office has achieved. As the edition issued was a small one, the general distribution has been limited to museums, print collections, and libraries containing over 200,000 volumes. A few copies, however, are for sale by the Superintendent of Documents at cost, and up to July 1, 41 copies had been sold.

The prints, numbering 2,707, were received in portfolios from Mrs. Hubbard. They were classified alphabetically according to engravers and arranged under their proper schools. The prints were then identified and cards written, giving as many authentic references as possible. One great difficulty always experienced in a catalogue of this kind is the many forms of the same name. Modern research has done much to confuse collectors, and it is hard sometimes to decide which is the proper form. The evidence was very carefully sifted in each case, and the form was determined by the majority of authorities. Many of the experts have not accepted the latest discovery of a different spelling, and even, in some cases, a different name, for some comparatively well-known engraver.

In some cases, as Dürer and Ryn (Rembrandt), there are references to from five to eight authorities. Over 12,000 references to authorities are given in the Catalog.

When a print had the title, this was copied exactly; but when there was no indication of the subject, this was supplied from the best book of reference, and usually in French, this being the diplomatic language of print textbooks. As the Catalog is intended particularly for institutions and collectors, translations were made only when the description was in Latin, Russian, or other less familiar languages.

The Catalog has received cordial recognition for its contents and enthusiastic praise for its form. The latter has contained a note of surprise that a publication so artistic should appear as a Government "document." It might be expected from the Grolier Club, but scarcely from the Government Printing Office. Our own experience with the Government Printing Office proves that it welcomes opportunity to do superior work, and does it, upon proper specification. The Hubbard Catalog and the "Journals of the Continental Congress" would require no apology from the most expert of private printers.

DIVISION OF PRINTS:
Exhibitions

On account of the construction of the stack in the south curtain, the reading room of the Division was moved temporarily into the southwest pavilion, necessitating the removal of the cases containing the Dürer engravings into the main hall.

A collection of mezzotint portraits of celebrated men, women, and children of the sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, and nineteenth centuries was exhibited in the west-south gallery. It was made up from the prints lent by Mrs. T. Harrison Garrett and Mr. George Lothrop Bradley, and from the Gardiner Greene Hubbard collection. The prints number about 400, and give an interesting illustration of portraiture for the last four hundred years.

The Japanese prints and Chinese paintings have not been changed. An exhibition of books, maps, and newspapers relating to the Oregon question and settlement of the West and Northwest has been placed in the cases devoted to books in the west-north gallery.

An interesting feature is a large collection of pamphlets containing speeches delivered in Congress on the Oregon settlement. The most important were added to the Library exhibit at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, at Portland, Oregon.

The competitive plans for the buildings of the George Washington University were lent to the Library for exhibition. They have attracted such considerable attention that similar exhibits may be continued as a regular feature.

There were in attendance 4,964 readers, who used 9,835 books, 6,183 periodicals, 239,533 stereoscopic views and prints.

THE LAW LIBRARY

The present chief of the Law Division ("Custodian of the Law Library"), Dr. Scott, submits his first annual report. As it analyzes somewhat the character of the collections, suggests lines of appropriate development, and indicates changes in procedure and new apparatus necessary to more prompt and certain administration, I give it nearly in full in Appendix V, together with its appendices which include lists of recent notable accessions.

The accessions during the year were as follows:

THE PERIODICAL DIVISION

During the past twelve months the increase of current material through the Periodical Division has been greater than in any previous year. The number of new titles added to the serial record was 1,939, making the present

PERIODICALS:
Accessions

aggregate 9,216. The accessions comprise 165 titles received by subscription, 306 through the Copyright Office, 722 by gift of the publishers, and 746 through the Smithsonian Deposit. Newspapers, periodicals, and publications of societies are included in this aggregate, but not the serial publications of this and foreign governments, which are received through the Division of Documents. The following comparative table, covering six fiscal years, shows the accessions of serials from various sources:

How acquired	1900	1901	1902	1903	1904	1905
Gifts and transfers	1,885	3,038	2,638	2,861	3,128	3,850

Total (titles not volumes) ..	4,435	7,225	6,045	6,390	7,277	9,216

Many sets of important trade publications are approaching completeness largely through the efforts of the publishers. The 165 added subscriptions of the year have strengthened the collections of foreign serials in nearly every class of literature represented in the Library, but mainly that of law, which heretofore has not had a representative selection of the current legal literature of foreign countries. The increase through the Smithsonian Deposit represents for the most part publications of foreign scientific societies, received by the Institution in exchange for its publications. Accessions through the Copyright Office represent the new ventures of the year in periodical literature, many of which will have, no doubt, only an ephemeral existence.

Accessions to the main collections of the Library from the Periodical Division, by completion for binding, aggregate 5,797 volumes of periodicals, and 809 volumes of newspapers.

Cooperation between the Library of Congress and other libraries in the work of exchanging duplicates has been advantageous especially to this Library, the year showing the receipt of 736 volumes and 19,367 numbers and the distribution in return therefor of 660 volumes and 12,367 numbers. By this means 34 sets of periodicals were completed.

Many valuable journals published in England and America during the eighteenth century have been added to the Library's already noteworthy collection. They include one lot of about 300 papers published in London during the period 1711 to 1729; and 116 numbers of the "Mercurius Politicus" (1645-1660), a weekly summary of events in Great Britain and Continental Europe. In American history an important acquisition is a file of the Maryland Journal for 1790, the year in which occurred the spirited sectional contest for the location of the Nation's Capital, which resulted in the selection of the present site on the Potomac.

THE SMITHSONIAN DEPOSIT

Effort has been continued to perfect the files of serial publications, sadly imperfect at the time of their transfer from the Capitol in 1897. Volumes and parts undoubtedly received had disappeared; others, including entire files, had been withdrawn by the Smithsonian itself after the original deposit; still others, received by the Smithsonian, had been withheld, pending a better ability on the part of the Library to handle them efficiently. During the past six years the material thus withdrawn or withheld, so far as it could be identified, has been sent up to the Library and consolidated with the Deposit, even though certain of it has again to be withdrawn for current use by the scientists at the Institution. The replacement of volumes and parts actually missing has been a much more difficult and laborious matter. Applications for them have been issued to the publishing bodies; and where these have failed—and they are too apt to fail, owing to the exhaustion of the original editions—attempts have been made to secure them by purchase in the second hand market.

Proposed transfer of material to Departmental libraries

Under the original agreement of 1866 all the material received by the Smithsonian constituting its “library” was to be deposited in the Library of Congress, and preserved there. Included in such are a number of serials in departments of literature which form specialties of certain department or bureau libraries within the District, and are, for this reason in general, avoided by the Library of Congress. Particularly is this true of Agriculture and of Medicine. During a brief period prior to 1897 the medical serials received by the Smithsonian were, I understand, diverted to the library of the Surgeon General’s Office. The purpose then was to save them from the hazards at the Capitol. I believe that a larger permanent policy should direct the resumption of this practice and its extension to at least one other department of literature—Agriculture. There should perhaps be excepted (1) the publications of governments and of societies, and (2) a selected number of the most important journals, i. e., those which record the progress of these sciences in their larger aspects, especially, also, their progress within the United States, and those which contain the more scientific discussions of underlying theory and principle. Agriculture and Medicine are special fields of literature. The libraries of the Agricultural Department and of the Surgeon General’s Office have already large collections in them, the latter a preëminent collection. They are extremely efficient. They also are government libraries, within the District, liberally administered. Efficiency, as well as economy, should dictate the concentration within them of highly specialized material within their special scope; and the avoidance of duplication of such material within the Library of Congress. I have recommended this view to the authorities of the Smithsonian.

I favor an extension of this policy to material of like nature received by the Library of Congress from other sources, particularly copyright; and shall recommend to the Committee on the Library the transfer to these special libraries of the "second copies" of copyrighted articles not required for the uses of the Library of Congress. I favor also the transfer to the Public Library of the District—also a government library, one half of the expense of which is borne by the Federal Treasury—of any duplicates in the Library of Congress of works in general literature which are no longer needed for its direct service. From the Department and Bureau libraries such transfers have already been authorized by Congress. In the case of the Library of Congress the power to authorize them is by the Revised Statutes vested in the Committee on the Library.

BINDING AND REPAIR

The total number of volumes bound during the year was 30,817, as against 28,174 during the year preceding. Of these 20,214 were handled at the branch bindery in the Library building.

CLASSIFICATION AND CATALOGUING

The total number of volumes catalogued during the last fiscal year amounted to 111,373. In addition 1,792 parts of volumes were added on the serial record of the Catalogue Division, and 5,862 volumes were, after careful comparison, rejected as duplicates. This is an increase of 13,513 volumes over last year, when 97,860 volumes were catalogued. This increase may be accounted for—(a) by the large num- Cataloguing ber of volumes of serial publications which are now added to only one record; (b) by the modification of rules governing recataloguing which went into effect July 1, 1904. On the other hand, the subjects covered were in the main as difficult as those of the preceding year and a larger proportion of the regular accessions required full subject entries.

The year shows once more an increase in the total number of cards filed in all catalogue records of this Division: 627,557, as against 577,427 in 1903-4; and 511,242 in 1902-3. This takes no account of cards received from the New York Public, John Crerar, Harvard, Boston Public, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Geological Survey libraries, which are stamped and filed as soon as possible after their receipt. The file of index cards to Experiment station literature is also kept up to date, the cards of this record being filed according to a minute system of classification, and therefore requiring more time. The same will doubtless hold true also of the cards of the Concilium Bibliographicum, to which reference was made in last year's report, in the filing of which no progress can as yet be reported.

Recataloguing The recataloguing of the literature on Southern Africa in June completed the class History and topography. In addition to History and topography (D-F) the following classes are now recatalogued: Geography, voyages and travel (general) (G); Physical geography (GB); Oceanography (GC); Anthropogeography (GF); Sports and games (GV); Statistics (HA); Economic theory (HB); Economic history, National production, Economic situation, by countries (HC); Transportation and communication (HE), except serials and Telegraph and telephone (under way); Literature of Music (ML); Mathematics (QA); Physics (QC); Chemistry (QD); Botany (QK); General works on technology and engineering (T, TA); Bibliography and Library Science (Z).

Recatalogued in part and under way: General works—Polygraphy (A); Anthropology (GN); Telegraph and telephone (HE); Commerce (HF); Musical theory (MT). General works on science (Q); Astronomy (QB); Meteorology (QC 851-999); Geology (QE); Natural history (QH); Zoology (QL); Medicine (R); Agriculture (S); Bridges and roofs (TG); Hydraulic engineering (TC); Mineral industries (TN).

The proposition of the Catalogue Rules Committee of the British Library Association to join with the corresponding committee of the A. L. A. in considering the adoption of a joint code of rules for American and English libraries has given added importance to the work on which this committee has been engaged since January, 1901. A meeting of the American committee was held in New York city March 25-28, 1905, at which the A. L. A. rules were carefully considered, many disputed points definitely disposed of and considerable progress made toward the settlement of the remaining ones. The draft code submitted by the British committee was considered point for point. As the latter was based in part on the American preliminary code published by the Library of Congress in 1902, the points of difference were found to be fewer and less serious than was at first anticipated. The report of the decisions arrived at, subsequently forwarded to the British committee, will no doubt go far towards establishing a common understanding with reference to these questions. An international agreement on cataloguing which shall enlist at least the great majority of libraries in English speaking countries is therefore in sight. The ultimate importance of such an achievement in its bearings on cooperation between libraries, and uniformity in their practice can not well be overestimated.

The total number of volumes classified was 131,986; reclassified, 57,243 (including 11,272 transfers); new accessions, 74,743; shelf listed, 83,381, of which 37,410 were new accessions.

The reclassified portion of the Library is composed as follows: Class A (Polygraphy), 20,000; D (History), 62,000; E and F (America), 41,000; G (Geography), 12,000; H (Social sciences), 23,000; L (Education), 4,000; ML (Literature and theory of Music), 8,000; Q (Science), 75,000; R (Medicine), 24,000; S (Agriculture), 22,000; T (Technology), 37,000; U (Military science), 7,000; V (Naval science), 5,000; Z (Bibliography), 41,000; Congressional reference library, Incunabula collection, etc., 4,000. Total, approximately, 385,000 volumes.

DISTRIBUTION OF PRINTED CATALOGUE CARDS

The offer to sell copies of our printed catalogue cards to other institutions was made in the autumn of 1901. The sales began November 1, 1901. The statistics of the sales by years since that date are as follows:

Statistics 1901-
1905

Sales November 1, 1901, to June 30, 1905

Year	Total receipts (deposits)	Refunds	Net receipts	Sales
1901-2.....	$4,534.59	$4,534.59	$2,168.34
1902-3.....	5,780.88	$4.20	5,776.68	6,394.39

1904-5.....	17,028.33	249.42	16,778.91	15,496.55

Increase 1904-5

The increase during the past over the preceding year has been:

	Per cent
In gross receipts.....	82
In sales.....	106

The amounts covered into the Treasury as above—during the past year $15,496.55—represent only the cash receipts. Exclusive of these are the amounts debited to other Government libraries for sales to them. These are not represented by cash payment to us, but by a charge at the Government Printing Office against their respective "allotments" for printing. During the past year these charges amounted to $517.91.

The amount appropriated specifically by Congress for service in the Card Section was last year $6,800. To this should be added the salaries, aggregating $3,000, of five employees of the Government Printing Office engaged in certain work intermediate between the actual printing of the cards and their distribution. With this expenditure for service ($9,800) the Card Section has handled the entire output of cards during the year, including those sorted away into "stock," has distributed the $16,014.46 worth of cards (in number, say, 2,000,000) sold, and has carried on all the correspondence and maintained the records necessary to the business. It has also classified and distributed the 1,200,000 cards issued without charge to the 31 depository libraries.

During the past three and a half years the business has been experimental. A small staff has sufficed for it, and a system of record somewhat elementary. The volume of business is now so considerable and growing so rapidly that a rapid increase must be sought in the service and a more elaborate system of record.

CARD SECTION:
Business

The recent increase in sales is traceable in part to the demand for cards covering the titles in the "A. L. A. Catalog of 8,000 volumes for a popular library." Cards for individual books in this collection can be ordered with facility and precision by merely quoting the "consecutive numbers" affixed to their titles in this catalogue. But a complete set of the cards covering the entire collection may be had for $154.56. For this small sum therefore (less than three months' salary of a competent cataloguer) a library having or buying this collection may secure the cards for a complete dictionary catalogue of it under author and subject. It is little wonder that libraries newly starting or reorganizing should promptly adopt this method of solving the difficult problem of selection and the expensive problem of cataloguing. Better for them to take even a large number of books that may not be absolutely the best for their purpose than to forego the benefit of this list already made and this catalogue already provided.

CARD DISTRIBUTION:

Saving to libraries

The saving to a library by the purchase of our cards over the cost of cataloguing independently the books which they represent and printing or otherwise manifolding the cards for them, is estimated to be from four to seven times the price they pay us. They have paid us during the past year $16,000. They have therefore saved during the past year from four to seven times this sum—$64,000 to $112,000. Let us take the mean of this as certainly within the mark. It is $88,000. The distribution of our printed cards has then directly saved the libraries of this country during the past year not less than $88,000. This saving is equal to the total sum ($88,140) expended by the Government during the year for the maintenance of our entire force of classifiers and cataloguers, 91 in number.

That force was established for our own immediate needs. There can not be a doubt that its indirect service to the community would more than justify its maintenance even if we had no need of catalogues of our own and no use for the books catalogued; even if, in other words, we were not a library, but a mere cataloguing bureau.

The jury of award at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition granted a grand prize for this system of catalogue card distribution. Composed as the jury was in part of eminent librarians from abroad, this award was a confirmation of the reputation which this work has gained in all countries where improvements in library administration and cooperation among libraries are studied and sought. The work needs no advertisement from us, for it is brought voluntarily into notice in publications and at library meetings wherever such matters are under discussion.

I mention this recognition with gratitude to my colleagues whose devotion and whose efficiency have deserved it; but in particular with gratitude to Congress, which, in granting me the means to secure such experts, has enabled the work to be undertaken in a way to insure its success.

USE

The statistics reported under this head have been solely those from the Main Reading Room. They have included only the recorded use there, i. e., the number of readers counted and the number of volumes issued to them. They were therefore not complete even of the use there, for they omitted that part of it which is not merely considerable and growing, but is most important—the use by special investigators in the alcoves and in the stacks. They took no account whatever of the use in other parts of the building, in the Divisions handling material special in form or subject—Manuscripts, Maps, Music, Prints, Periodicals, Documents, Law, and the Smithsonian Deposit—nor of the still more highly significant service of the Bibliographic Division.

They were therefore misleading and have misled. They induced a Member of Congress last year to declare that every book issued by the Library cost the Government $1.19 in service. He had taken the total expenditure for the Library on all accounts^a and divided this by the number of volumes "circulated" from the Main Reading Room alone.^b

Such a misunderstanding is not strange. It naturally results from the repetition in our reports from year to year of statistics entitled "statistics of use," but which are neither complete nor descriptive. In my last report I stated that I was inclined thereafter "to omit entirely the figures of volumes issued in the Main Reading Room."

In the present report I accordingly omit the usual table. The figures for the Reading Room alone show a slight diminution over those of last year—a diminution, however, explained and offset by increase in the other Divisions. Fluctuations in them, as in the statistics of total attendance, are observable from year to year. Over longer periods—as the six years past—the gross attendance and the use have, of course, increased materially.

The total number of visitors to the building last year was 923,116, as against 816,700 in 1904.

The number of books sent out on interlibrary loans reached last year 934, as against but one third of that number during the year preceding.

^a Including furniture, books, cataloguing, etc., all Divisions of the Library. He included even the appropriation for the Copyright Office and Card Section which are self-supporting.

^b The service in the Main Reading Room costs not $590,000 a year, as this comparison would imply, but $42,000. It covers a day from 9 a. m. till 10 p. m., requiring two "shifts," and it includes aid to inquirers not at all represented in the statistics of the books issued. The people engaged in it are not, as he remarked, 429, but only 50.

Reading Room for the Blind

The collection of books in raised type has been increased during the year by the gift of 40 volumes and the purchase of 47. The growth of the various collections reserved for use in this room was as follows:

Description	1903	1904	1905
Embossed books.....	760	834	916
Embossed magazines.....	368	470	569
Embossed music.....	56	56	56

Gifts of books, papers, music, and maps have been received from the following:

Mr. E. E. Allen, Pennsylvania Institute for the Blind, Philadelphia; American printing house for the Blind; Dr. M. Anagnos, Perkins Institute, Boston; Mrs. Alfred Cady, Marengo, Ill.; Mr. J. W. Caverly, Lynn, Mass.; Mrs. Carrie I. Cavers, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Rebecca Colfelt, Philadelphia; Mrs. Garner, Washington, D. C.; Mr. J. F. Germuiller, Washington, D. C.; Miss C. F. Gordon-Cumming, Crieff, Scotland; Mr. D. Hutcheson, Washington, D. C.; Rev. H. Kawasumi, Sendai, Japan; Miss L. E. Latimer, Hyattsville, Md.; Mrs. W. F. MacLennan, Washington, D. C.; Miss M. L. Mason, New York; Mrs. McManes, Philadelphia; Miss J. W. Rice, Washington, D. C.; Mr. B. B. Smythe, Topeka, Kans.; Society for the promotion of church work among the Blind, Philadelphia; Mrs. A. P. Spaulding, Massachusetts Association for promoting the interest of the adult Blind, Boston; Mr. Wm. Wade, Oakmont, Pa.; Xavier Free publication society for the Blind, New York City.

Twenty-two persons have contributed sums amounting to $42.75 for street-car tickets to enable blind persons to attend the readings and musicals.

During the past year there were 66 readings and 36 musicals. There were 68 volunteer readers and 94 musicians.

THE LEWIS AND CLARK CENTENNIAL EXPOSITION

The sum allotted to the Library of Congress for this exhibit was $3,000. Its allotment of floor space was about 1,000 square feet. The exhibit was largely made up of materials sent directly from the exhibit at St. Louis. Although both funds and space were too limited for an adequate exhibit, the work of nearly every Division of the Library was represented. The exhibit was well arranged and attracted its full share of attention. It could not have been essentially improved except by the addition of rare books, manuscripts, and prints, which it seemed unwise to expose to the risks incident to transportation and installation in a wooden building.

REVISION OF COPYRIGHT LAWS

The existing copyright laws of the United States are admittedly imperfect and confused, difficult for the courts to interpret, and impossible for the Copyright Office to administer to the satisfaction of its clients. A similar, though less flagrant condition of the laws relating to trade-marks led to the appointment by Congress of a Commission to revise and codify them. Similar action has been urged to deal with copyright. The experience of the committees of Congress concerned with these subjects led them to believe, however, that as effective results would be achieved more promptly, and at less cost, by conference and agreement among the various interests particularly suffering from defects in the present laws and likely to benefit in a direct and practical way by the correction of them.

In April last the following circular was issued from my office:

April 10, 1905

“SIR: It is generally admitted by those most directly concerned that the copyright laws of the United States need revision. Since the enactment of the Revised

*Revision of
copyright laws*

Statutes relating to copyright, twelve amendatory acts have been passed, and as these contain textual contradictions and inconsistencies the interpolation of their provisions into those of the Revised Statutes gives rise to serious perplexities and embarrassments. Projects for the further amendment of these laws are constantly urged, and five copyright bills were pending on the adjournment of Congress on March 3, 1905.

“It is doubtful, however, if the enactment of additional provisions which are merely partial or temporizing will remedy the existing difficulties. The time seems to have been reached for the replacement of the existing insufficient and inconsistent laws by one general copyright statute.

“The Senate Committee on Patents, which deals with copyright legislation, has, in view of these considerations, made public its purpose “to attempt a codification of the copyright laws at the next session of Congress.” The chairman of that committee has suggested that the Librarian of Congress call a conference to consider such a codification, and that such persons and associations as are interested in the subject be invited to be present or to appoint delegates to meet at some suitable place and convenient time, for the purpose of discussing a draft of a general copyright law to be presented for consideration at the next session of Congress.

“It would be desirable to secure such a meeting as early in the summer as possible, and, as a matter of convenience to the greater number of possible representatives, it is proposed to meet in New York City at some place and date (between May 25 and June 15) to be fixed upon later. This preliminary conference should be followed by a second meeting in the autumn sufficiently early to allow the results arrived at to be properly formulated for presentation upon the opening of Congress in the following December.

“The discussions must necessarily be kept within a limit that shall insure a practical result. They will, however, afford opportunity, not merely for considering the defects of the present laws in definition and expression, but other imperfections through which they fail to secure protection obviously just. These defects and imperfections should be submitted to the conference by the interests concerned with their remedy. A representation of such interests as nearly complete as feasible will be sought.

"We assume that your organization should participate, and suggest that action be taken toward its representation by at least one, not exceeding two, delegates. (The number should be thus limited in order to avoid a total number that would be unwieldy.) We recommend, therefore:

(1) That you submit this project to your organization or such body as may be authorized to act in its behalf;

(2) That the organization, or such other body, designate a delegate or two delegates, who shall be authorized, in its behalf, to submit suggestions to the conference, to participate in its discussions, and to cast votes on all questions submitted to a vote;

(3) That prompt notice be given to the Librarian of Congress of the action taken as above;

(4) That in case your organization does not care to be represented, you notify the Librarian immediately.

"An invitation similar to this is being issued concurrently to various other organizations representing authors, painters, composers, playwrights, photographers, publishers, printers and illustrators, the American Bar Association, and certain others concerned with copyright matters.

"For effective discussion it seems necessary that the main conferences should be primarily of representatives of organized interests. That need not preclude the conference itself from seeking counsel or suggestion from individuals; though it seems probable that such counsel or suggestion could most advantageously be transmitted through some one of the organizations formally represented at the conference.

"I shall be glad to receive from you suggestion of any other organization representing interests akin to those represented by yours, to which a copy of this invitation should be addressed.

"The questions to be submitted in behalf of the interests which you represent should of course be determined beforehand, and formulated with such precision that your representatives can present at the conference practically definite instructions. If, in advance of the conference, copies of your proposals can be sent to me, the points raised can be collated and the discussion upon them thereby facilitated.

"The Register of Copyrights has prepared an edition of the copyright laws in force, in which the provisions of the Revised Statutes relating to copyright are presented in an orderly arrangement, with the corresponding provisions of subsequent amendatory acts in parallel columns. This is printed on writing paper with wide margins, upon which can be noted suggestions relative to the provisions of the laws now in force. A copy of this work will be sent upon request."

"Very respectfully

Solicitor General's Office: represented by Mr. W. J. Hughes.

In addition to the delegates named above, Samuel J. Elder, esq., and A. W. Elson, esq., of Boston, were present.

COPYRIGHT CON-FERENCE:
Proceedings

The limitations, as well as the opportunities of the Conference, were indicated in my opening remarks to the delegates at their first session:

“The origin, the occasion, and the purpose of this Conference are indicated in the call. The origin is a general agreement that our present copyright laws are defective in definition and imperfect, and perhaps inconsistent, in expression. The occasion is an intimation from the Senate Committee on Patents that at the coming session of Congress the committee proposes to submit a bill for a codification of these laws. Such a bill would naturally be drafted in the Copyright Office. If so, it would be the desire of the Copyright Office to have upon it the criticism of the various interests concerned with copyright protection. But the Office sees in it also an opportunity to submit to Congress in a systematic and orderly way various suggestions for the perfection of the laws where it is claimed they are now unjust or defective, and this Conference is to give expression to these suggestions. Such of them as survive discussion will be noted for the attention of Congress in connection with such a codification. We invite them. We shall try to secure fair consideration for any of them that seem obviously just or to be supported by a considerable opinion. But we would not have our abilities in the matter nor the abilities of this Conference overestimated.

“The Conference, of course, is not a commission appointed by Congress to revise or even to codify the law. It is not in a formal way appointed by Congress at all. It has been invited by the Copyright Office, at the suggestion, to be sure, of the chairman of the Senate Committee on Patents, but without any express direction or mandate of law. It will, of course, be advisory to the Office, and through the Office it may reach Congress with recommendations, but of course its expressions can be no more than recommendations, and the recommendations to be effective ought, of course, to be kept within reasonable limits likely to be adopted.

"The District Attorney has remarked that our statutory laws ought to be in two parts—the first of laws to be followed and the second of "moral yearnings." In our proposals for copyright we had, I think, better leave the moral yearnings to a later generation or at least a later session of Congress.

"The Conference is composed of organizations concerned with copyright protection, but it is composed of typical organizations only—important ones, but typical ones only. It can not claim, therefore, to be completely representative of the community. It has not been composed with reference to balancing interests possibly conflicting. A majority vote of its members would not determine a proposal to be just nor would a unanimous vote determine it to be expedient. In fact, any mere vote of the Conference would have small significance.

"Now, these are serious limitations. We think they ought to be clearly before you at the outset, but we do not believe that they should prevent a work here of high service and of profit, and a work of which there is urgent need; and we cannot but believe that unanimity of opinion in a body such as this, so nearly representative and including interests so important, must have great weight with Congress.

"Our first intention had been to ask you to submit your suggestions to us at Washington, either by letter or by delegates, and submit them as separate organizations. It later seemed that a comparison of views such as a meeting such as this might afford would be profitable; and then it seemed that it would be more considerate to the majority of you that this first session at least should be held in New York, and we have come to meet you here."

In addition to the Librarian of Congress and the Register of Copyrights, the Government was represented by Mr. Charles P. Montgomery, of the Treasury Department, whose explanations and suggestions with reference to importation were clear and valuable. At the second session in November a representative of the Solicitor General's Office was present to observe and report the discussions, in the expectation that the Department of Justice would later be called upon for criticism of the proposed bill. The Conference accepted the theory of its functions thus indicated. It avoided the profession of an authority which it could not claim by avoiding either formal organization or formal "decision." The delegates submitted suggestions, expressed views, and discussed them, but they brought none of them to a formal vote.

FERENCE:
Proceedings.

The first session of the Conference was held at the City Club of New York, which had generously granted the use of its rooms. It occupied both mornings and afternoons of three successive days, beginning May 31. Its accomplishments are summarized in an editorial in the Publishers Weekly, from which I quote:

"Results of surprising unanimity were reached in a minimum of time and without waste of talk. * * * It was the unanimous feeling that un hoped-for progress toward an excellent, if not ideal, copyright code had been made possible, and that the results would probably be quicker and better than if the plan of a [copyright] commission had been adopted."

A stenographic report was preserved of the entire proceedings. Upon the basis of it and other accumulated data there was drafted by the Register of Copyrights a statement for consideration at the second session in November. For convenience it took the form of a bill; but was in effect a series of propositions for discussion.

The second session, also held at New York, lasted four days, and included detailed discussion of every proposed provision, with arguments for both additions and eliminations. A third, to be held at Washington after the opening of Congress, will consider a new draft taking account of these and of specific criticism, legal and practical, from various sources. The result may be a measure which Congress can adopt without demur.

There have been many endeavors to perfect our copyright laws; but they have been sporadic, as a rule directed to one particular defect, and generally undertaken by the single interest having a grievance or, perhaps even less fortunately, by advocates of an abstract justice which ran counter to a particular interest. The proposed measure will represent a very different purpose, method, and authority.
Its purpose is indeed justice, but a justice within the general intent of the existing law. It recognizes certain definite defects which entail certain substantial hardships. It summons to conference the interests which in a substantial—not merely theoretic—way are the actual sufferers. And these agree upon the remedies to be recommended. But on considering these remedies they have at hand, prepared by the Copyright Office, in anticipation of this very exigency, careful analyses not merely of the existing copyright laws of the United States and of foreign countries, but of the past statutes, showing the development of the domestic law and even of every bill ever introduced into Congress proposing amendment of it. They have at their service without cost sound legal counsel from the representatives of the American Bar Association, itself a participant; the criticisms of other experts on copyright law, and of the legal advisers of the government. And, furthermore, they have throughout the sympathy and the cooperation, the active aid and the conservative experience of the Copyright Office, with its precise knowledge of existing procedure, which in this case is also a knowledge of the substantive right.

COPYRIGHT LAWS:
Scope of proposed reforms

Surely from these elements, joined with the spirit of fairness and of courtesy manifest at the conferences, there should issue a measure entitled to respect.

LEGISLATION NEEDED

In my last report I referred to certain legislation, other than revision of the copyright laws, as needed to facilitate the current administration of the Library. As none of this has yet been provided, I venture to repeat the statement of it:

Postal law. Amendments which—

(1) Will confer upon the Library the privilege of free registration of mail matter, already accorded to various departments and bureaus of the Government.

(2) Will render explicit the privilege upon the part of copyright applicants of free transmission to the Copyright Office of articles deposited under the copyright law. The privilege was granted in 1867, repeated in 1870, but has been cast into doubt, at least, by subsequent general legislation.

(3) Will similarly render explicit the privilege of free transmittal in general of mail matter to and from the Library of Congress on the public business. This has been assumed, but only under the provisions of law touching executive business of the Government in general.

Tariff law. The inclusion of music, reproductions of photographs, and all other printed material, bound or unbound, in the description of the articles which, under the act approved July 24, 1897 (par. 500 of sec. 2), may be imported free of duty for the use of the Library of Congress. Music the Library may now import only under paragraph 503 (which exempts public libraries in general). Reproductions of photographs are not now provided for in either paragraph. On some the Library has already actually paid duty—contrary to the manifest intention of Congress that material for the Government collections and use should enter free.^a Wilkes Exploring Expedition; Margry Papers. Provision for the final distribution of the fragments or residue of these still remaining in the custody of the Library.

Respectfully submitted

HERBERT PUTNAM

Librarian of Congress

The Honorable

THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE

^a Paragraph 500 is now as follows:

"SEC. 2. That on and after the passage of this act, unless otherwise specially provided for in this act, the following articles when imported shall be exempt from duty:

* * * * *

"500. Books, engravings, photographs, etchings (bound or unbound), maps and charts imported by authority or for the use of the United States or for the use of the Library of Congress."

The specifications of paragraph 503 are "books, maps, music, photographs, etchings, lithographic prints, and charts specially imported, etc."

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., December 5, 1905

SIR: Heretofore the Superintendent has rendered separate annual reports to Congress, covering the years 1898 to 1904, although not specifically required by law to do so, but in the later years the greater parts of these reports have been practically duplicated in those of the Librarian to render them duly comprehensive of the Library as a whole. With the Librarian's concurrence, therefore, the Superintendent proposed in his last annual report to Congress to report thereafter annually by contribution to that of the Librarian, and this is now done.

Beside the care and maintenance of the building and grounds of the Library, this office, being separate and distinct from that of the Librarian, has charge of the equipment of the Library as to interior fixtures, furniture, and mechanical appliances, and disburses all appropriations for the Library as well as those for the building and grounds.

In prior years the building was open to visitors during parts or the whole of some of the holidays, while the reading rooms were closed; but during the last two fiscal years the building and the reading and exhibition rooms have been open to the public, as on Sundays, from 2 to 10 o'clock p. m., excepting Christmas day (Sunday), the Monday following, and the Fourth of July, which were the only entire days in the year when the building was not open. During the warm months of July, August, and September, however, the building was closed after 1 o'clock on Saturdays.

VISITORS TO THE LIBRARY

The number of visitors admitted during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905, as carefully counted at the entrances, is given in the following table:

Month	9 to 6 o'clock	6 to 10 o'clock	Maximum per day	Minimum per day	Daily average
July	26,437	24,982	2,634	426	1,714

June	27,845	25,539	2,259	1,266	1,779
Totals	550,513	372,603

Grand total, 923,116.

Average, 362 days, 2,550.

The total visitors during the six days of "Inauguration week," from March 2 to 7, inclusive, was 150,325.

EQUIPMENT OF THE BUILDING

The mechanical apparatus of the building for warming, ventilation, elevators, transmission machinery—both trolley and pneumatic—electric lighting, and water supply has been in operation with practically no interruption whatever, although its constant day and evening use leaves but few hours, and those at night, for readjustments and repairs. As stated in the last annual report, the electric-power machinery is daily taxed to its full capacity, and at times overloaded, by the now very general occupation and use of the great building day and evening. This use is gradually increasing, and additional power will shortly be needed to meet it, but it is expected that the central power plant, soon to be constructed for the Government buildings on Capitol Hill, will obviate the necessity for additional expenditure at the Library building in that direction. The estimate for fuel, lights, and miscellaneous supplies for the next fiscal year is therefore not increased above that of last year.

CARE OF THE LIBRARY GROUNDS

By careful attention and the assistance of the Office of Public Buildings and Grounds, under the annual appropriation of $1,000 for the purpose, the grounds of the Library have been maintained in good and appropriate condition as essentially a continuation of the Capitol park.

FURNITURE

Last winter, before the sunny season approached, the equipment of mechanical window shades of brass wire cloth for the two main book stacks, described in the last report, was completed and has been in constant and very successful operation ever since.

The two tier arrangement of combined storage and exhibition cases, comprising 40 cases in all, for the Division of Prints, begun in the last fiscal year, has been completed, excepting some of the movable shelves and trays.

In the latter part of the year six more of the 26 pairs of iron shelf ranges in the first tier of the new book stack in the north curtain hall (room H-4) were inclosed in glass, making 18 such inclosures in that stack. At the same time a contract was made for similarly inclosing the corresponding 18 pairs of ranges in the second tier, and that work has since been finished.

Out of the $40,000 appropriated for furniture, partitions, shelving, screens, etc., there were also procured numerous catalogue cases, screens, tables, desks, chairs, repairs, exhibition cases, etc., which, together with the larger fixtures, are summarized in the following list of expenditures from that appropriation:

South curtain, second story, shelving, including electric lighting thereof	$9,544.45
Inclosures of shelving, north curtain; being 6 in lower and 18 in second tier.....	5,413.78
Wood and glass partitions, screens, etc., and electrical work therefor	563.75
Operating apparatus for book-stack window shades	460.28
North and south stacks, electrical work and materials.....	241.49
Steel storage trays and cases and traveling catalogue cases for Card Section.....	5,720.80
Miscellaneous desks, tables, stands, chairs, stools, etc.....	2,573.20
Special mahogany desks, plain tables, and reading tables..	1,264.00
Card catalogue cases, file cases, trays, bookcases, etc.....	1,376.43
Exhibition cases.....	7,225.00
Counter and trays for Division of Prints	1,392.00
Typewriters, remodeling, etc	1,027.00
Pouches for Capitol book carrier	122.00
Circular rubber mat for Main Reading Room	776.00
Carpets, rugs, rubber matting, linoleum, etc.....	332.88
Miscellaneous, including book-truck tires, water coolers, shades, blocks, hinges, locks, etc.....	595.27
Repairing, fitting, etc., of miscellaneous furniture, shelving, etc., including labor and materials	1,360.93
Total	39,989.26

Plain reading tables, chairs, catalogue cases, desks, and other minor indispensable items of equipment, and also service for cleaning and maintenance of the general outfit, have been supplied to the law branch of the Library in the Capitol.

ACCOMMODATIONS FOR BOUND NEWSPAPERS

For additional, though temporary, accommodations for the growing accumulation of bound newspaper volumes, room has had to be found in the cellar of the Library building, although not a suitable place for the preservation, access to, or use of such valuable and constantly called for material. The copyright deposits in the cellar are also fast encroaching on the small space, such as it is, available for the newspaper volumes, and the result is an imminent necessity for a radically different and suitable provision for the shelving of the newspaper collection. Having charge of the appropriations and planning for the furniture equipment of the Library, the Superintendent now finds that no available space, of dimensions at all warranting the expense of proper permanent shelving and facilities for the accommodation of that collection, remains within the building and that it is now necessary to resort to occupation of the southeast court for this purpose.

The original plans and description of the building adopted by Congress October 2, 1888, illustrated and proposed such a future use of the courts whenever the growth of the collections might exceed the capacity of the building, without requiring any real extension of the building or any modification of its architectural appearance. (House Mis. Doc. 12, 50th Cong., 2d sess.) Last year it was expected that a considerable part of the $40,000 appropriated for furniture, shelving, partitions, screens, etc., for the present year could be profitably used in the construction of permanent newspaper shelving within the building, but this now proves to be impracticable and unwise, for the reason given above. Its expenditure must therefore be restricted to other furniture for the building unless Congress authorizes its application to the construction of newspaper shelving in one of the courts.

For the care and maintenance of the building and grounds, other than the regular personal services provided for annually by a specific appropriation, an annual appropriation is made, amounting last year to $32,500, "for fuel, lights, repairs, and miscellaneous supplies."

The duties of the Superintendent include the disbursement of all appropriations for the Library and for the building and grounds and all appropriations under the control of the Joint Committee on the Library.

ELECTRIC POWER STATION

Last year he was also directed by Congress to investigate and report, under an appropriation of $5,000, on the economy of a contemplated power station for supplying heat, light, and power to the Executive buildings on and about the Mall and in the neighborhood of the White House. That report was submitted January 9, 1905. (House Doc. 205, Fifty-eighth Congress, third session.)

Appendix II

REPORT OF THE REGISTER OF COPYRIGHTS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 1904-5

Washington, D. C., July 6, 1905

The copyright business and the work of the Copyright Office for the fiscal year from July 1, 1904, to June 30, 1905, inclusive, are summarized as follows:

RECEIPTS

The gross receipts during the year were $80,440.56. A Fees, etc. balance of $2,165.29, representing trust funds and unfinished business, was on hand July 1, 1904, making a total of $82,605.85 to be accounted for. Of this amount the sum of $2,430.92 was refunded, having been sent to the Copyright Office as excess fees or as fees for articles not registrable, leaving a net balance of $80,174.93. The balance carried over July 1, 1905, was $2,116.93 (representing trust funds, $1,674.46, and total unfinished business since July 1, 1897—eight years—$442.47), leaving for fees applied during the fiscal year 1904-5, $78,058.

EXPENDITURES

The appropriation made by Congress for salaries in the Salaries Copyright Office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905, was $74,700. Of this amount the total expenditure for salaries was $74,662.46, or $3,395.54 less than the net amount of fees earned and paid into the Treasury during the corresponding year. The expenditure for supplies, except furniture, including stationery and other articles, and postage on foreign mail matter, etc., was $967.72.

The copyright fees received and paid into the United Copyright fees States Treasury during the last eight years, from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1905, amount to $527,335.50, while the sum used of the appropriations for salaries during that period was $427,588.22, leaving an excess of fees over appropriations used for service for the eight years of $99,747.28.

Copyright deposits

During these same eight years the articles received as deposits amount to the grand total of 1,276,143 pieces, including two copies each of 68,310 books and pamphlets, 37,245 leaflets, 55,946 periodical contributions, 6,216 dramatic compositions, 140,200 separate numbers of periodicals, 155,690 musical compositions, 12,576 maps and charts, 43,471 engravings, cuts, and prints, 13,244 chromos and lithographs, 94,537 photographs, and 389 miscellaneous articles. In addition to the above, 20,495 photographs were deposited to identify the same number of original works of art—paintings, drawings, and statuary—of which the descriptions had been filed. Many of these articles are of considerable value.

COPYRIGHT ENTRIES AND FEES

Registrations

The entries of titles for the fiscal year reached the highest number in the history of the Copyright Office, namely, 113,374. Of these entries 103,544 were titles of the productions of citizens or residents of the United States, and 9,830 were titles of works of foreigners. The fees for these entries were: United States, $51,772; foreign, $9,830, or a total of $61,602.

Certificates, etc.

Of the foreign entries 2,831 were with certificates, and of the United States entries 25,425, or a total of 28,256 certificates, at fees amounting to $14,128. In addition, 2,958 copies of record were furnished for $1,479 in fees; assignments to the number of 703 were recorded and certified, at a charge of $808, and search fees charged to the amount of $41. The total copyright fees for the year amounted to $78,058. The details of the Copyright Office business and applied fees are set out in Exhibits A, B, and C.

The number of entries in each class from July 1, 1904, to June 30, 1905, as compared with the number of entries made in the previous fiscal year, is seen in Exhibit F.

COPYRIGHT DEPOSITS

The various articles deposited in compliance with the copyright law, which have been receipted for, stamped, credited, indexed, and catalogued during the fiscal year amount to 207,424. This is a gain of 22,625 over the preceding fiscal year. The number of these articles in each class for the eight fiscal years is shown in Exhibit G, and indicates a grand total of 1,276,143 articles received in the eight years. Articles deposited

COPYRIGHT CATALOGUE AND INDEX

The usual four quarterly volumes of the Catalogue of Title Entries were printed, containing 5,289 pages. Catalogue

The title index cards for the fiscal year number 181,709. After having been first used as the copy for the printed catalogue required to be produced weekly by the act of Congress of March 3, 1891 (51st Cong., 2d sess., ch. 565), these cards are added to the permanent card indexes of the copyright entries, which now number a total of over 1,213,000 cards. Index cards

CIRCULARS AND BULLETINS

The customary "Semi-Annual Statements" were issued on July 2, 1904, and January 3, 1905, setting out in condensed form the statistics of the copyright business for the fiscal year 1903-4, and for the calendar year 1904, respectively. Of the usual "Circulars of Information," thirteen were reprinted during the year, as new editions were required. The text of the new copyright act of March 3, 1905, was printed, with a brief summary of the proceedings in Congress leading to its enactment, and also with explicit directions for making application under the new law, in French and in German as well as in English. Semi-annual statements
Circulars

New revised editions were printed of the Copyright Office Bulletins Nos. 1 and 2, containing the copyright laws, and the directions for making application for copyright registration, while two new bulletins, Nos. 8 and 9, were published during the year. The full titles of these publications are as follows:

New editions of 1. The Copyright Law of the United States of America, in force Bulletins Nos. 1 March 3, 1905, 6th edition. 30 pp. + 1 l. 8°.
and 2

2. Directions for the registration of copyrights under the laws of the United States. 44 pp. 8°.

CONDITION OF COPYRIGHT OFFICE WORK

(a) Current work

The current work of the Copyright Office is now kept as nearly up to date as is possible in an office where the daily business is so fluctuating. During the year the title registrations have varied from 141 in one day to 3,320 on another day. State of work

At this date (July 6, 1905) the remittances received up to the third mail of the day have been recorded and acknowledged; the account books of the bookkeeping division are written up and posted to June 30, and the accounts rendered to the Treasury Department are settled up to and including the month of June, while earned fees to June 30, inclusive, have been paid into the Treasury. Accounts

All copyright applications received up to and including June 30 have been passed upon and refunds made. The total unfinished business for the full eight years, from July 1, 1897, to June 30, 1905, amounts to but $442.47.

At the close of business on July 6, 1905, notwithstanding the intervening Saturday half holiday and Sunday, the titles for record in all classes had been dated, classified, and numbered to June 30, and all titles had been indexed up to June 30. Titles recorded

Deposits

The articles of all classes deposited had been stamped, catalogued, and credited up to the receipts of June 30, inclusive.

The Catalogue of Title Entries had been brought forward to No. 730 of June 29, 1905.

The certificate and noncertificate entries (all classes, except A to June 27, and B and C to June 28) had been recorded to June 30, inclusive, and certificates and notices of entry to the same date made, revised, and mailed.

(b) Copyright business prior to July 1, 1897Arrears

Congress in the appropriation act for the fiscal year just closed continued the special force for work on the arrears of Copyright Office business prior to July 1, 1897. The examination and arrangement of the mass of deposits has been continued, and 51,868 credited musical compositions (previously arranged by years of entry) have been given a more exact arrangement and conveniently shelved for future reference.

Credited articles to the number of 44,263 (including 6,083 pamphlets, 12,932 leaflets, 9,694 periodicals, and 14,071 musical compositions) have been properly filed away under year and number. In the work of crediting deposits, 18,494 articles were handled, and 17,722 articles (including 2,083 pamphlets and 14,208 musical compositions) were credited and properly filed away. In the case of 772 articles identification and credit could not be made, and they were accordingly indexed and filed for convenient reference, those which were desired by the Library being forwarded to the shelves for use.

Index cards (title and proprietor) for dramatic compositions to the number of 14,811 were written.

At the close of business June 30, 1905, there remained uncredited in the files of the Copyright Office 174,325 articles deposited prior to July 1, 1897, as follows:

Books	1, 609

COPYRIGHT LEGISLATION

During the third session of the Fifty-eighth Congress six copyright bills were pending. Of these one became law, being approved on March 3, 1905. This bill, originally introduced by Senator Platt, of Connecticut, on January 15, 1902, was printed as Senate bill No. 2894 of the Fifty-seventh Congress, first session, and referred to the Senate Committee on Patents, but was not reported on. The bill provided that in the case of a foreign book in a foreign language two copies of the original foreign edition might be deposited in the Copyright Office within thirty days after publication abroad, the title of the work having been previously filed "on or before the day of publication in this or any foreign country," accompanied with either (a) an affidavit declaring that the claimant was the author of the book, or (b) evidence that he was the author's executor or administrator, or (c) an assignment to him from the author. No person should have copyright in such book, however, after the expiration of twelve months from first publication abroad, unless two copies of the work were delivered at the Library of Congress within said twelve months, printed from type set within the limits of the United States or from plates made therefrom, "either in the language of origin, or in a version or translation thereof in English or some other language." During this interval the importation of copies of the original work was to be permitted, such copies requiring no notice of copyright.

No action having been taken upon this bill, a substitute bill was presented by Senator Platt, of Connecticut, on November 16, 1903. This was printed as Senate bill No. 849 of the Fifty-eighth Congress, first session, but an error having occurred in the printing, it was reintroduced on December 8, 1903, and again ordered printed as Senate bill No. 2229, and referred to the Committee on Patents. From that committee it was reported on January 8, 1904, with the recommendation that it should be passed without amendment.

Meantime, on December 9, 1903, the bill had been presented in the House of Representatives by Mr. Currier, of New Hampshire, referred to the House Committee on Patents, and ordered printed as House bill No. 6487. From this committee the bill was sent back to the House of Representatives on March 1, 1904, with a detailed report (House Report No. 1287), and an amendment to the effect that the act should only apply "to a citizen or subject of a foreign state or nation when such foreign state or nation permits to citizens of the United States of America the benefit of copyright on the same basis as is given to its citizens by this Act." On December 14, 1904, the bill was passed by the House of Representatives, amended as proposed by the House Committee on Patents.

The House act, referred to the Senate Committee on Patents on December 15, 1904, was reported on January 27, 1905, with a verbal amendment to the effect that the act should only apply when the foreign country concerned permitted to citizens of the United States the "benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as to its own citizens." On January 30 the bill from the Committee on Patents was brought up in the Senate, but was met with the objection that it failed to provide for a notice of the reservation of copyright. Thereupon Senator Platt let the bill go over without action, and on February 2 presented a substitute bill (submitted at his request by the Register of Copyrights) as an amendment. This was passed by the Senate on March 3, 1905, and on the same day received an affirmative vote in the House. The text of the new legislation is given here, with the wording of the House act as reported by the Senate Committee on Patents, in parallel columns:

[H. R. Act 6487 as amended by the Senate Committee on Patents.]

"Whenever the author or proprietor of a book in a foreign language, which shall be published in a foreign country before the day of publication in this country, or his executors, administrators, or assigns, shall, within twelve months after the first publication of such book in a foreign country, obtain a copyright for a translation of such book in the English language, which shall be the first copyright in this country for a translation of such book, he and they shall have, during the term of such copyright, the sole liberty of printing, reprinting, publishing, vending, translating, and dramatizing the said book, and, in the case of a dramatic composition, of publicly performing the same, or of causing it to be performed or represented by others: Provided, That this Act shall only apply to a citizen or subject of a foreign state or nation when such foreign state or nation permits to citizens of the United States of America the benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as to its own citizens."

[Act of March 3, 1905, as approved.]

"Whenever the author or proprietor of a book in a foreign language, which shall be published in a foreign country before the day of publication in this country, or his executors, administrators, or assigns, shall deposit one complete copy of the same, including all maps and other illustrations, in the Library of Congress, Washington, District of Columbia, within thirty days after the first publication of such book in a foreign country, and shall insert in such copy, and in all copies of such book sold or distributed in the United States, on the title page or the page immediately following, a notice of the reservation of copyright in the name of the proprietor, together with the true date of first publication of such book, in the following words: 'Published , nineteen hundred and . Privilege of copyright in the United States reserved under the Act approved March third, nineteen hundred and five, by ,' and shall, within twelve months after the first publication of such book in a foreign country, file the title of such book and deposit two copies of it in the original language or, at his option, of a translation of it in the English language, printed from type set within the limits of the United States, or from plates made therefrom, containing a notice of copyright, as provided by the copyright laws now in force, he and they shall have during the term of twenty-eight years from the date of recording the title of the book or of the English translation of it, as provided for above, the sole liberty of printing, reprinting, publishing, vending, translating, and dramatizing the said book: Provided, That this Act shall only apply to a citizen or subject of a foreign State or nation when such foreign State or nation permits to citizens of the United States of America the benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as to its own citizens."

THE CONSOLIDATION AND AMENDMENT OF THE COPYRIGHT LAWS

It has been generally admitted that the copyright laws need amendment and that such amendment should be secured by the substitution of one general law in place of the thirteen laws which now have to do with copyright.

The Senate Committee on Patents which deals with copyright legislation, in view of this admitted necessity for amendment of the copyright laws, made public its purpose, in Senate Report 3380, 58th Congress, third session, January 27, 1905, "to attempt a codification of the copyright laws at the next session of Congress."

Upon the suggestion of the chairman of the Senate Committee on Patents, the Librarian of Congress called a conference of representatives of the organizations interested in copyright legislation, and a session was held in New York, May 31-June 2, 1905.

The result of the deliberations of this conference was to entrust the Copyright Office with the formulation of a tentative draft of a bill for such a consolidation of the copyright laws. A memorandum draft will be accordingly prepared and submitted to a second session of the Conference on Copyright, to be held in New York on November 1, 1905. It is hoped that after being duly considered and discussed this tentative draft may form the basis for a bill for the general amendment of the copyright laws.

REPORT OF THE CARD SECTION

Washington, D. C., June 30, 1905

SIR: I have the honor to submit the annual report of the Card Section for the fiscal year 1904-5, covering the work of the Section for the twelve months July 1, 1904, to June 30, 1905.

SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CARDS

During the year 221 names have been added to the list of subscribers, bringing the total number of libraries, individuals, and firms which have thus far subscribed up to 608. About 40 per cent of the new subscribers are public libraries of less than 10,000 volumes. Of the remainder, 10 per cent are libraries of high schools, normal schools, and small colleges of less than 10,000 volumes; while about 15 per cent are public libraries and college libraries of less than 25,000 volumes.

SUBSCRIBERS CLASSIFIED

Public libraries of over 100,000 volumes	23
Public libraries of from 25,000 to 100,000 volumes	64
Public libraries of from 10,000 to 25,000 volumes	81
Public libraries of less than 10,000 volumes	185

SALE OF CARDS

The increase in the sale of cards as compared with the sale of last year has been over 106 per cent. This large increase has been due chiefly to the sale of the special edition of cards issued for books listed in the new edition of the A. L. A. Catalog. It seems probable that the increase in the sale of cards ordered in other ways has been about the same as last year.

In the following tabulation of the sale of cards the amount realized from subscription to proof sheets is included. The amount charged against the appropriations of the United States Departments for cards furnished through the Library branch of the Government Printing Office is not included in the cash sales, but is given as a separate item.

METHODS OF ORDERING CARDS

It has proved impracticable to continue to keep statistics of the sales by method of ordering, owing chiefly to the fact that about one-half of the orders now received are of a mixed character, being partly by title and partly by number. It is safe to say, however, that there has been no change in methods of ordering and no considerable increase in the amount of cards ordered by one or the other method, with the notable exception of the orders received from the A. L. A. Catalog.

Orders by number from "The Cumulative Book Index" and "The A. L. A. Booklist" are of growing importance, although it is probable that during the year they have amounted to but a fraction of 1 per cent of the total.

The sales to publishers for redistribution to libraries as a means of advertising their books have amounted to about $250, or about one-sixth of 1 per cent of the total sales.

ORDERS BY NUMBER FROM THE A. L. A. CATALOG

The A. L. A. Catalog has proved to be a very satisfactory order list for L. C. cards. Instead of starting a new series of numbers for this special edition of cards, or affixing the regular card numbers in broken order, the plan was adopted of numbering consecutively the titles in the dictionary portion of the catalogue and arranging the stock to correspond. This method reduces to the minimum both the labor of preparing orders and the labor of selecting the cards.

Complete sets of cards for the 6,196 books listed in the A. L. A. Catalog are supplied for $154.56. Twelve sets have been sold during the year.

Since the publication of the catalogue in October, 1904, orders made up from this catalogue have come in steadily. It is probable that about 90 per cent of the increase in the sale of cards for the year has been due to this class of orders.

The catalogue has especially facilitated the ordering of cards by the smaller public libraries, which before its publication had no practical means of ordering them by number. To it is no doubt due the notable increase in the number of subscriptions received from small libraries.

It is manifest that such libraries now need a current supplement to the A. L. A. Catalog which will give reliable and prompt guidance in the selection of books currently published and at the same time supply the L. C. card numbers. Should the A. L. A. Booklist meet this need, it may fairly be expected to greatly promote the use of the cards by small libraries.

THE STOCK OF CARDS

The stock of printed catalogue cards now amounts to about 180,000 different cards, with an average of about 40 copies of each card.

The quality of the card stock used throughout the year has been of the highest, and the cutting and perforating have been uniformly satisfactory.

About 75 cards are reprinted each week on the average. As cards are reprinted those which were originally printed in an unsatisfactory form are changed, so far as practicable, to agree with the form of card now adopted as most satisfactory. The stock of cards therefore tends to become uniform.

THE DEPOSITORY LIBRARIES

Two complete sets of cards have been sent to the "Institut International de Bibliographie." The set of cards now on exhibition at Portland will be sent to the Public Library of New South Wales at the close of the Exposition. A complete depository set has also been supplied to the Louisville Public Library.

Partial sets of cards, acquired by purchase by Bowdoin College and Princeton University, have been completed and the libraries of these institutions made regular depositories.

The complete list of depositories is as follows, those added during the year being marked with an asterisk:

- *Bowdoin College Library, Brunswick, Me.
- Brooklyn Public Library, Brooklyn, N. Y.
- Buffalo Public Library, Buffalo, N. Y.
- Carnegie Library of Atlanta, Atlanta, Ga.
- Cincinnati Public Library, Cincinnati, Ohio.
- Cleveland Public Library, Cleveland, Ohio.
- Denver Public Library, Denver, Colo.
- Illinois State University Library, Champaign, Ill.
- Indiana State Library, Indianapolis, Ind.
- *Institut International de Bibliographie, Brussels, Belgium.
- John Crerar Library, Chicago, Ill.
- Johns Hopkins University Library, Baltimore, Md.
- *Louisville Free Public Library, Louisville, Ky.
- McGill University Library, Montreal, Canada.
- Massachusetts State Library, Boston, Mass.
- Mechanics' Institute Library, San Francisco, Cal.
- Michigan University Library, Ann Arbor, Mich.
- Minnesota University Library, Minneapolis, Minn.
- Nebraska University Library, Lincoln, Nebr.
- New Orleans Public Library, New Orleans, La.
- *New South Wales Public Library, Sydney, N. S. W.
- New York Public Library, New York city.
- New York State Library, Albany, N. Y.
- Pennsylvania University Library, Philadelphia, Pa.
- Philadelphia Free Library, Philadelphia, Pa.
- *Princeton University Library, Princeton, N. J.
- St. Louis Public Library, St. Louis, Mo.
- Seattle Public Library, Seattle, Wash.
- Texas University Library, Austin, Tex.
- Washington Public Library, Washington, D. C.
- Wisconsin State Historical Society Library, Madison, Wis.

About 55,000 cards issued before the proof sheets of L. C. cards began to be printed have been supplied to the Los Angeles Public Library. As this library has systematically cut and filed its set of proof sheets, it now has a complete record of all cards in stock at the Library of Congress. For a library in which this record is consulted only occasionally, it seems probable that this form of catalogue will prove as satisfactory as a complete set of cards.

Two additional partial depositories have been made in the libraries of the Departments of the United States Government. The complete list of these governmental depositories is as follows, those added during the year being marked with an asterisk:

ARMY WAR COLLEGE:

Cards relating to military science and military history; about 4,000 cards.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS:

Cards on sociology and selected topics in science and technology; about 7,000 cards.

COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY:

Cards relating to such branches of science and technology as are related to the work of the Survey; about 2,000 cards.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND LABOR:

Complete sets of cards on sociology and bibliography; about 12,000 cards.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY:

Cards relating to such branches of science and technology as are related to the work of the Survey; about 2,000 cards.

INTERNATIONAL BUREAU OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLICS:

Cards relating to the Central and South American Republics; about 2,000 cards.

NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS:

Cards relating to certain branches of science and technology; about 2,000 cards.

NAVAL OBSERVATORY:

Cards for science, mathematics, and physics; about 5,000 cards.

WAR DEPARTMENT:

Complete set of cards on American history, and cards on subjects pertaining to the work of the War Department; about 35,000 cards.

THE EXHIBIT OF THE CARD SECTION AT PORTLAND

The work of the Card Section was quite fully represented at the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition. The items exhibited were, for the most part, the same as those exhibited at St. Louis, but two were added which deserve mention. (1) A group of thirteen transparencies, illustrating the production, distribution, ordering, and use of the L. C. catalogue cards. (2) A collection of 29 sample catalogues contributed by subscribing libraries in different parts of the country, showing methods of adapting the L. C. cards to their catalogues. The last-named exhibit was especially suggestive and use will be made of information obtained from it in a revised edition of the Handbook of Card Distribution.

PUBLICATIONS

The absence of the assistant in charge for about four months of the year on account of work in connection with the St. Louis Exposition and the Portland Exposition, prevented the publication of a much-needed revision of the Handbook of Card Distribution.

Two additional bulletins have been issued, viz:

BULLETIN No. 8. (October 1, 1904.)

"List of subscribers to the L. C. cards." Revised to September 30, 1904.

BULLETIN No. 9. (October 15, 1904.)

"Special sets—Nos. 3-5." Explaining terms of subscription to sets of analytical cards prepared by the Library of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for "Annales de la science agronomique," "Landwirthschaftliche Jahrbücher," and "Die landwirthschaftlichen Versuchs-stationen."

IMPROVEMENT IN EQUIPMENT

The remainder of the stock has been transferred to steel cases, so that all of it is now stored in a uniform manner.

The classed catalogue is being revised to agree with the new classification of the Library, so far as this is finished. Most of the cards on Bibliography, Science, and History have been worked over. The revised catalogue, which is in effect a card shelf list, has proved to be very satisfactory as a means of selecting cards by subject. Until it is finished, the work of selecting cards by subject will continue to require an excessive amount of expert work of the highest grade.

THICKNESS OF CARD STOCK

The question of changing the thickness of the stock used for the cards from the "R," or intermediate thickness now in use, to the "L," or thinnest stock now in use in American libraries, has been under discussion during the year. In order to obtain data on the subject, preliminary to its discussion at the Portland meeting of the American Library Association, with the cooperation of some of the leading library schools and several libraries, tests were made as to the relative ease of handling cards of the "L," and "R" thickness. The number of tests made were hardly sufficient to form the basis for a definite conclusion and the tests proved not to be as definite as the problem demanded, but the results of all the evidence received seemed to warrant the following tentative conclusions:

1. A loss of from 4 to 6 per cent in time required by library assistants to handle the L thickness.

2. A very considerable increase in the number of errors resulting from mistaking two cards for one, if the L thickness were used.

3. The amount of time lost and the number of errors made in handling the L thickness increases in proportion to the inexperience of those who handle the cards. The loss of time to the average reader who use the public catalogue would probably be not less than 10 per cent, with a corresponding increase in number of errors.

4. When cards are fingered in consecutive order, in much the same way that the leaves of a book are ordinarily fingered, the L thickness may be handled more rapidly even than the R thickness on account of the greater flexibility of the former. Comparatively little of the handling of catalogue cards can be done in this way, however, and practically all of the users of public catalogues will continue to pick the cards over one by one.

5. If the L and R cards are mixed in the same catalogue, the loss in handling them will probably be as great as in handling the L cards alone, and the errors will be even more numerous.

To test thoroughly the relative merits of the two thicknesses of stock as to rapidity and accuracy in handling, and reduce the results to exact percentages, would require a large number of experiments and much time and attention. The question now presented seems to be whether it is better to decide the matter on the basis of the information which we now have, or to continue the experiments with the probability that they will lead only to the more difficult question of deciding whether a loss of from 5 to 10 per cent in time is more important than a gain of 30 per cent in space.

For the sake of completeness I append a list of the tests which were employed and directions for making them; also a list of the arguments for and against the change to the L thickness, compiled as a basis for the discussion at Portland.

The following institutions cooperated in making the tests: Pratt Institute Library School, Illinois State Library School, Drexel Institute Library School, Washington Public Library, Library of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Library of the U. S. Geological Survey, and the John Crerar Library. In all, twenty-nine records of tests were obtained.

LIST OF TESTS

Test No. 1.—Block up the two “main sets” of L and R cards alike. Turn each card back in the trays one by one in the way that cards are usually turned when a person is searching close to the point in a catalog at which the desired title is expected to be found. Write the initial letter of the entry word for each card in the squares on the “Check sheet for tests Nos. 1 and 6.” Successive letters may be written in columns down the sheet or in rows across, as preferred. The two main sets of cards are to be checked through in the following order: (a) First half of first set; (b) second half of second set; (c) first half of second set; (d) second half of first set.

Test No. 2.—The two main sets of cards are sent out arranged in the increasing order of their serial numbers. Rearrange them in alphabetical order, proceeding as follows: (a) Throw out the first set into packs of cards having entry words beginning with the same letter; (b) throw out the second set in the same way; (c) finish the alphabeting of second set; (d) finish the alphabeting of the first set.

Test No. 3.—File into each set of cards, blocked up in the same way, the 80 cards in the “duplicate sets” in the following order: (a) First half of first set; (b) second half of second set; (c) First half of second set; (d) second half of first set.

Test No. 4.—Remove the duplicates inserted in test 3 in the following order: (a) First half of first set; (b) second half of second set; (c) first half of second set; (d) second half of first set.

Test No. 5.—Look up and supply the dates of publication of the 80 books on the "List supplementary to test 5" in the following order: (a) First quarter of list in first quarter of first set; (b) second quarter in second quarter of second set; (c) third quarter in third quarter of first set; (d) fourth quarter in fourth quarter of second set.

Test No. 6.—Make up a mixed set of L and R cards by selecting from one of the two main sets all cards having entry word beginning with a vowel, and from the other all cards having entry word beginning with a consonant. Shuffle the resulting set of cards well and then count them through and write initial letter of entry words on the "Check sheet," as in test 1. Make record only of the time required to check through the set after it is prepared.

Cards having entry words commencing with a vowel were taken from — set.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS AS TO TESTS

1. So far as practicable, the tests should be made when the person is in a normal physical and mental state, in order that the variations in the rate of working throughout any single test may be as slight as possible.

2. In all of the tests which require that the cards be handled one by one, each set should be placed in a separate tray of the kind ordinarily used for card catalogs, and the two sets should be blocked up alike.

3. The particular method of dealing with any details attendant upon the test is not important so long as the same detail is attended to in the same way in the case of both sets.

4. In order to equalize the tests just as far as possible, those making the tests at any institution should alternate in commencing with the one or the other set.

5. When reference is made to "first" set and "second" set, these terms indicate merely the order in which the work on the two sets is begun in any test.

6. In order that the tests made by any person may be of value, the time required for each item of work in them must be accurately recorded as follows:

(a) When it has been decided whether the L set or the R set shall be the "first" set (see 4 and 5 above), supply letters L or R, as the case may require, before word "set" in the form given below the outline for each test.

(b) Note below m and s the time in minutes and seconds required for performing each item of work required by the test.

7. The tests should not be considered as "speed tests" in the ordinary sense of the term. Adopt a systematic method of doing the various items of work called for which will tend to make the tests uniform and fair throughout.

LIST OF ARGUMENTS FOR AND AGAINST THE PROPOSITION TO USE
L STOCK FOR THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS CARDS IN PLACE OF THE R STOCK HERETOFORE USED

Affirmative

[Favoring the change to L thickness]

1. The saving of space and the saving in the cost of cases by the use of the L thickness would be $33\frac{1}{3}$ per cent, because two trays will hold as many cards of the L thickness as three trays will hold of the R thickness.

2. The cost of card stock of the L thickness is 25 per cent less than the cost of card stock of the R thickness.

3. The greater the space occupied by a catalog, the more time it takes to consult it because of the necessity of moving from one place to another.

4. The L thickness is used by the Concilium Bibliographicum of Zurich, the Institut International de Bibliographie of Brussels, and minor cooperative enterprises for printing cards, affiliated with the latter. If this thickness is adopted by the Library of Congress, universal agreement as to thickness of cards will be practically an accomplished fact.

5. The L stock is somewhat better adapted for typewriter use.

Negative

[Favoring the continued use of the R thickness of stock]

1. The loss of time from the use of the cards of the L thickness would amount to perhaps 6 per cent. The card catalog is at best a serious tax on the time and patience of the users of public libraries. Is it advisable to add to their difficulties by using a thinner stock?

2. Unless the L thickness of cards is kept blocked up carefully, it will curl and warp to a much greater extent than the R thickness.

3. Although universal agreement as to thickness is desirable, it is not worth any considerable sacrifice for the following reasons:

(a) The printed cards issued by the Concilium Bibliographicum, the Institut International de Bibliographie and affiliated enterprises are designed mainly for bibliographical purposes and are not usually inserted in the public catalogs of libraries.

(b) America has taken the lead in cooperative cataloging enterprises. If we decide that it is on the whole more economical to use the R thickness, is it not probable that the Europeans will change to our thickness?

4. Next to the books themselves and a building for housing them, the card catalog is now admitted to be the most essential item in the equipment of a library. The average card catalog of the R thickness (estimating four cards to the book) occupies not over one seventy-fifth as much cubic space as the books which they catalog. If space can be found for the book, can not it also be found for the cards?

5. The thinner the cards the more the public will resort to unusual measures to separate them (e. g., wetting the thumb and rubbing them up or bending or cramping them), with the result that the cards will wear out more rapidly.

6. The use of the larger number of trays is incidentally advantageous in that one person is less liable to be using the tray which another person wishes to consult.

7. The thicker the cards the less liable two cards are to be mistaken for one. Consequently, both public and official searching are quite likely to be more accurate if the thicker cards are used.

8. The R thickness is now used in the public catalogs of the great majority of libraries in the United States. It is admitted to be quite undesirable to mix two thicknesses of cards in the same catalog. If this were done, it would seriously add to the difficulties of using card catalogs and would lead to an increased percentage of errors arising from mistaking two cards for one.

Appendix V

REPORT OF THE CUSTODIAN OF THE LAW LIBRARY

Washington, D. C., June 30, 1905

SIR: I have the honor to submit the annual report of the Law Library for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905.

ACCESSIONS 1904-5

The year has witnessed a marked growth in the law collections of the Library. The total accessions for 1904-5 were 7,753 volumes, as against 3,780 volumes in 1903-4 and 2,027 in 1902-3.

The accessions include some notable works. Among those acquired by gift as a result of letters written to most of the foreign governments, their colonies and political subdivisions, are the statutes of Switzerland (federal), Norway, Mexico, British East India, Victoria (Australia), and New Zealand.

The notable accessions through purchase include an almost complete set of Pennsylvania County reports, a manuscript set of the Rhode Island session laws, 1653-1747 (these laws were not printed previous to 1747), the Rhode Island session laws from 1754 to 1773, the session laws of New Hampshire from 1780 to 1789, and a valuable collection of early English law books (see Appendix VI for a list of those published before 1600). The set of Year Books, or court reports, contained in the last named collection gives the Library of Congress as complete a collection of this material as is found in the best English law libraries.

CHANGES IN LOCATION OF LAW LITERATURE

During the past year and a half many changes have been made in the location of the law literature of the Library. The present location and number of volumes is as follows:

Library building, north curtain:

International law.....	406
Rare editions, American and foreign.....	892
Foreign law, including British.....	20, 504
Periodicals, American and foreign.....	5, 008

Law theses, etc.....	2, 250
American city ordinances.....	626
American bar association reports.....	298
Celebrated trials.....	5, 252
Briefs and records of United States Supreme court.	4, 000
		<hr/> 45, 210
Reading room: American law reports, treatises, digests, etc.....		8, 620
East stack, deck 19: Old editions of English and Amer- ican treatises, etc.....		5, 380
North stack, deck 9: "Duplicates" for exchange.....		1, 518
—— ———: Law books classified with other subjects.....		6, 250
Law Library at Capitol: English and American law reports, statutes, treatises, etc.....		35, 030
Conference room of the United States Supreme court: Ameri- can law reports, treatises, etc.....		8, 970*
		<hr/> 110, 978
Total		110, 978

The main collection, which is located in the north curtain of the Library building, duplicates in only few instances the law literature found elsewhere. This material is subject to call by telephone from the Capitol and can be sent there by the underground book carrier in about ten minutes. The shelves are also accessible to persons engaged in research.

The collection at the Capitol comprises 2 copies of the reports of the American State courts, 6 copies of United States Supreme court reports, 1 copy of the English court reports, the reports of United States courts of inferior jurisdiction, the various reporter systems, collected cases, the modern English and American treatises, encyclopædias, digests, compilations, codes, statutes (American State statutes since 1850), and the recent law magazines. It aims to meet the more constant needs of the American practitioner as a working law library.

The reference collection in the Reading Room of the Library building is less complete. It is composed almost entirely of copies "A" of the copyright deposit of recent years. Because of the inadequate space to accommodate law scholars and students at the Capitol it is highly desirable to add at once such State court reports, statutes, compilations, codes, digests, and treatises as are necessary to make this collection a good working library.

In disregard of the unity of the law collection, about 6,000 law books are scattered among the stacks of the main Library, classified with such subjects as international law, constitutional law, politics, treaties, commerce, education, land systems, revenues, elections, military and naval science, technology, transportation, agriculture, the history of various countries, etc. Outside of the law books classified with these subjects practically the same scheme of shelf classification exists. As all parts of the law collections are resorted to by attendants and readers, it has seemed best to adopt a very simple plan of shelf classification and to have it uniform throughout.

WORK UNDERTAKEN

Among the changes which have been made with a view to improving the service are: a special arrangement with the Copyright Office whereby all the law books received on deposit are more promptly placed at the disposal of the Library; another arrangement with the Document Division to attain a similar result in regard to the law books received by gift and exchange; the introduction of certain devices to overcome the difficulties inherent in the administration of the widely scattered law collections, and an adaptation of the shelf-list card catalogue to record the law books discovered to be lacking and the steps taken to acquire them through gift, copyright, or purchase.

A systematic inventory of the law literature of the Library has been begun. This is a large and important undertaking. It involves the critical examination and careful collation of nearly 111,000 volumes, together with the making of a record on cards of such data as are necessary to identify and distinguish each book. The work has progressed slowly and much remains to be done before an accurate appreciation can be formed of what the Library needs to complete its collections.

Law books have been found in all parts of the Library. Sometimes different publications have been discovered incorrectly bound together; at other times, most misleadingly lettered. Several valuable and rare books not on the records of the Library have been brought to light, e. g., a revision of the Maryland laws of 1700—not known to exist; two copies of the Year Book 40–50, Edward III, Tottell, 1576—no copy of which exists in any other library of the world so far as published catalogues, bibliographies, works on early printing, etc., in the Library of Congress show; twelve Year Books of the reign of Henry VI, including four Pynsons, bound together without any mark indicating Library ownership and without mention on any of the Library records. How these and several other rare law books came into the Library it is now hard to say, but that they are here is a matter for congratulation.

Improvements have been made in the heating, lighting, and ventilation of the Law Library at the Capitol.

PRESENT COLLECTIONS AND PLAN OF DEVELOPMENT

An attempt has been made to give an estimate of the degree of completeness of the present law collections of the Library for the purpose of submitting some suggestions in respect to a plan of development:

	Condition
Bibliography of law, legislation, and administration	Poor
United States:
Early session laws, except Rhode Island, Massachusetts ..	Poor
Later session laws, treatises, digests, revisions—
One set	Good
Other set	Poor
Court reports.....	Good
Briefs and records of the United States Supreme court....	Poor

Great Britain:

Statutes, revisions	Good
Court reports	Good
Treatises, digests, compilations, etc., before 1800	Fair
Treatises, digests, compilations, etc., after 1800	Poor
Colonial, except Australia, India, Canada	Poor

Anglo-American:

Trials	Good
Legal biography	Fair

All countries (foreign and domestic):

Magazines, reviews, periodicals	Poor
Bar association reports	Poor
Law theses, addresses, monographs, etc.	Poor

Foreign, except British:

Treatises, codes, revisions, compilations	Poor
Court reports, digests, except Belgium, France, German Empire, Hungary ...	Poor

International law, public and private..... Poor

(1) Bibliography of law, legislation, administration, etc.

In the development of any collection of literature the bibliography of that literature must be the subject of first consideration. Bibliography indicates the material which exists, the quantity and relations of that material and where it is to be found. In some instances the scientific and commercial value of the books is indicated. All this information is obviously a prerequisite to the acquisition of the material itself. It is equally apparent that all the desirable material can not be acquired at once. In the meantime a great library must be in a position to furnish helpful information about the books which have not yet come into its possession. To develop the bibliography alone of the mass of law, legislation, and administration of all the legal systems, past and present, will require vigilant search.

(2) United States

Assuming that it should be the aim of the Library to possess at least one copy of every law publication printed in the United States (including the colonial era), I think that no opportunity to complete our collection should be allowed to pass unless the price demanded in a particular case is clearly unreasonable in view of the known supply. Though the Library has received from one to two copies of all law books copyrighted since 1846, yet many of the legal publications of this period are lacking either because they were not copyrighted or because they have been lost or worn out. There are also large gaps in the law material published previous to 1846. Henceforth I think the Library should secure three copies of all State court reports (i. e., of the courts of last resort) and two copies of all statutes and codes. For the most part these can be had without cost through gift, exchange, or copyright.

(3) Great Britain

As the material on the English public and common law published before 1800 is necessary to an understanding of the foundations of our law, the Library should aim to possess one copy of every such law publication. The standard which the Harvard Law school has adopted for its library—viz., to secure all the editions of all classical English law books—would seem obligatory upon the national library. Of the more recent British law material there must be an intelligent selection, else much money may be wasted.

(4) International law and comparative constitutional law

The development of the collection of international public and private law and the collection of constitutions and constitutional law of the various countries is of the first importance. This material, together with that heretofore mentioned, should receive, I believe, our early attention and should be gathered as completely and rapidly as possible. The fund placed at the disposal of the Chief Justice could very properly be used in this direction. Much of the material, however, is scarce and expensive and the fund at his disposal is but $3,000 yearly. It ought to be $10,000.

(5) Law magazines and bar association reports

The Library is very weak in its collection of English and American law magazines and the bar association reports of all countries. Some of the latter, especially the later reports, can be secured by gift. Both these materials, when properly indexed, will be full of suggestion to legislators and administrators as well as to members of the bench and bar.

(6) Spanish law

The Library has almost nothing on Spanish law. The law of the various Spanish countries and our own Spanish possessions should be gathered with much completeness. To develop systematically and make available this material will require the service of a specialist thoroughly familiar with the legal institutions of the Spanish speaking peoples. Such a person, too, should possess a knowledge of Anglo-American legal institutions.

(7) Briefs and records of the Supreme court.

The briefs and records should be collected, gathered, and bound as soon as possible. Several fine collections made by Justices of the Supreme court during a long service on the bench have been sold on their decease to other libraries. The libraries of the Bar Associations of New York and Philadelphia have almost perfect collections, while a superficial examination shows that the collection of the Library of Congress is very imperfect.

(8) British colonial law

The Library is very deficient in British colonial law outside of Australia, India, and Canada. Because of the general practice of printing small editions the British colonial material is scarce and expensive. To avoid the payment of fancy prices the Library should be a regular subscriber to the current publications. Care must also be taken to secure in season any newly started publications.

(9) Foreign law, other than British and Spanish

The Library lacks the court reports and codes of most of the foreign countries, but has made a fair start in collecting the modern statutes. In addition to the official editions we should secure, I believe, the best private editions. The latter are generally of more practical use because copiously annotated. Several of the current official publications are now received through gift and exchange, and an attempt should be made to secure all. Where material comes by gift the tendency to delay the sending or the failure to send altogether must be provided against by prompt notices. As the ordinance power of the administration is much larger in foreign countries than in the United States, it is important that we should secure the collections of decrees, ordinances, etc.

Histories of the law, encyclopædias, digests, scientific magazines, and treatises dealing with the substantive and adjective law of the different countries and important political subdivisions thereof are numerous, and care must constantly be exercised to ascertain those which are essential to a good working library. Much opportunity exists here to squander money on useless material. The fact that a title is announced in a trade list furnishes few or no criteria of the importance and merit of the work. Unfortunately some publishers of the best law works are very indifferent booksellers, and vice versa. To safeguard ourselves in this field it will be necessary to keep in touch with the law scholars, judges, lawyers, and law libraries of the different countries. Where translations in English and French have been made they should be acquired as well as the originals.

(10) Law theses, addresses, pamphlets, etc., of all countries

Though this material can generally be had without cost on application to the authors or other proper persons, its development entails a vast and vigilant reading of the various law publications and a considerable correspondence. When properly indexed this literature will be found very useful to law scholars and students of legislative problems.

(11) Celebrated trials, legal biography, etc.

In the collecting of celebrated trials, legal biographies, and other literature which may be considered to possess a somewhat ornamental and entertaining interest to the profession, the Library seems to have made a fair start, especially in the material written in the English language. Where other libraries are lacking, in this field the Library of Congress will generally be presumed to have the particular work desired. We shall therefore be obliged ultimately to develop these collections with much completeness.

Need of technical aid

Such, in a general way, are the conditions and needs of the Library as regards the law literature itself. But to ascertain these facts in detail, to develop the law collection systematically, and to put it in a position to realize its greatest usefulness will require the service of specialists.

Library service

Of the nearly two score Government libraries in Washington, most of them are being developed under the direction of specialists in connection with the needs of their severely technical work. The Library of Congress, as primarily a legislative library, must likewise employ specialists thoroughly trained in the technicalities of law and legislation if it would meet the practical needs of legislators, judges, executive officers, et al. Economy dictates the same thing. It is sheer waste to gather and house worthless material or to classify and index useful material in such fashion that it is unavailable for the practical needs of those for whom it was gathered. The man who knows the literature, history, and juristic phraseology of legislation may be expected not only to classify and catalogue law books rapidly and accurately, but to accumulate that precise knowledge which is so invaluable to the busy legislator who comes to the Library and seeks to exhaust the subject of his particular inquiry in the most direct way.

Practically the entire time of the present force of the Law Library is consumed in serving the readers with the law literature that has happened to come into the Library's possession. This is the service for which they have been selected and must be retained.

Since 1832 the Law Library has existed somewhat apart from the general Library. At that time by act of Congress most of the law literature was segregated and the Justices of the Supreme court were given a measure of control in its management and use. Since then Congress has ordered that the Law Library be kept open every day so long as either House is in session and that appropriations for its increase be expended under the direction of the Chief Justice; but thus far no provision has been made for the employment of specialists, technically trained in the various legal systems, to assist in the systematic development of an organic collection.

The activity of several richly endowed bar association and university law libraries, together with the scarcity of a vast quantity of valuable law material, would seem to make it incumbent upon Congress soon to provide adequately for the growth of this Library if its intention to have a great and useful law collection is to be carried out.

Respectfully submitted

(B) EARLY ENGLISH LAW BOOKS PRINTED BEFORE 1600

(1) Year Books

The following list shows the early editions of the Year Books or reports of cases decided in the English courts during the reigns from Edward I to Henry VIII, which are now possessed by the Library of Congress. Except where otherwise stated the copies named below were acquired by the Library during the year ending June 30, 1905, chiefly through the purchase en bloc of the collection of William V. Kellen, Esq., of Boston.

Danckerts (Justus, 1630–1695?)

Atlas. eng. title, [1] p., 100 maps. fol. Amsterdam, Iustus Danckerts . . . [1703?]

NOTE.—On map no. 94, "Pelonnesus hodie Moreæ Regnum", the date 1687, occurs four times. The date 1703 was supplied from the first copy of Danckerts' Atlas in which it occurs on pl. 10, "Historische en geographische tafel". On this table the king of Spain is given as "Philippus de V of Carolus III", which shows that the table was made during the war of the Spanish succession, 1701–1714. Although the table does not appear in this atlas the following map, no. 22, "Le theatre de la guerre dans les Sevennes avec les plaines des environs de Lanquedoc", is a duplicate of one of the five maps, showing the theatre of the war of the Spanish succession, 1701–1714, which appears in, Danckerts (Justus). Atlas. [1703?]

Most of the maps carry the name of the Danckerts,—Justus, Cornelius, Theodore, or Johann. Other maps are by various cartographers including, Abraham Allard, Frederick de Wit, Carl Allard, P. Du Val, and Nicolas Witsen.

Six of the seven maps bearing the name of Carl Allard are taken from his, "Atlas minor", 1696.

Ottens (Reinier) and Ottens (Josua).

Atlas minor sive geographia compendiosa in qua orbis terrarum paucis attamen novissimis tabulis ostenditur.—Atlas nouveau, contenant toutes les parties du monde, ou sont exactement remarquées les empires, monarchies, royaumes, etats, republiques, &c, &c, &c. Recueilles des meilleurs auteurs. 2 titles, 42 maps, 7 pl. fol. Amsterdam, [1737?]

NOTE.—The first title-page is the much used copper plate of Atlas mounted on the globe supporting the heavens, and carries the word Atlas at the top. The second title is the Ottens' title-page with their name and the date omitted, and without the small engraving by F. Ottens at the foot of the page, which appears on other copies of this title-page.

Maps by various cartographers, including Theodore, Justus and Cornelius Danckerts, de Wit, Placide, Delisle, Jaillot, Feuille, Joachim Ottens and Sanson.

Maps by the Danckerts are evidently of an earlier date than the others.

Maps by Delisle are preceded by a plate carrying the following title: Grand theatre de la guerre sur les frontieres de France & d'Allemagne ou carte nouvelle du cours du Rhin . . . This plate contains plans of the fortifications of eight towns on the Rhine, and an engraving of the siege of Philipsbourg which occurred in 1734.

(sig. 2 l. not signed; A-L in sixes; M (?) in fours; A-L, K, M₂, O, N-Y, Zz, Aa-Bb in twos; a-b in sixes; c in fours).

"The first edition of Ptolemy's geography with Mercator's maps. The text is the version of Pirckheymer, edited by Arnoldus Mylius, whose dedication of the work to Abraham Ortelius is dated "Coloniæ calendis Iulij, anno D. 1583". The privileges on the verso of the title to the maps are subscribed "Datum Viennæ Austriæ 26. Maij. 1578", and "Datum 3. Februarij 1578. Bruxellæ"; and the dedication "Duysburgi mense Febr: 1583 . . . Gerardus Mercator". The colophon is on the verso of the last leaf of the final index (sig. c₃). The 28 copperplate maps, sometimes colored, are the same as those printed separately in 1578 and are on double pages, with one exception. They comprise the "Vniuersalis tabvla iuxta Ptolemevm", ten of Europe, five of Africa (one of which is on a single leaf entitled "Appendix. III. Tabvlæ Afr:," verso blank) and twelve of Asia. These maps were reprinted in 1605 and 1619.

This edition corresponds to that in the Boston Athenæum with the exception of sig. F, which is not incorrectly signed E.

— [Géographie de Ptolémée, reproduction photolithographique du manuscrit grec du monastère de Vatopedi au mont Athos, exécutée d'après les clichés obtenus sous la direction de m. Pierre de Sévastianoff et précédée d'une introduction historique sur le mont Athos, les monastères et les dépôts littéraires de la Presqu'île Sainte. Par Victor Langlois]. 2 p. l., 117 pp., 1 l., 1 map; title, cviii pp., incl. 42 maps. fol. [Paris, Didot frères fils & co. 1866].

NOTE.—Title page wanting.

The historical preface relating to Mont Athos, by V. Langlois, contains: "I. Histoire de la montagne Sainte.—II. Monastères et skytes.—III. Archives des monastères.—IV. Bibliothèques des monastères: inventaire des manuscrits grecs; inventaire des manuscrits slaves; inventaire des manuscrits géorgiens; notice sur les manuscrits du Mont Athos.—V. Bibliographie: liste des principaux voyages exécutés au Mont Athos depuis le XV^e siècle et dont il existe des relations". This preface is followed by a map entitled: "Carte du Mont Athos, exécutée à l'échelle de 1:22,222. 1866".

Following this, is the photolithographic reproduction of the Ptolemy, preceded by a richly ornamented chromolithographic title-page, adorned with eight views of the Mount Athos and the principal monasteries; the title reads:

"Κλαυδιον Πτολεμαϊου γεογραφικης υφηγησεως το εν Αθωι κατα το Βατοπεδιον σωζομενον αντιγραφον επιμελεστατα φωτωλιθογραφηθεν."

"F. Kellarhoven del., imp. Lemerancier et cie . . ., ch. Walter lith."

The text of the geography is reproduced in black on paper colored to imitate parchment; each paragraph begins with a capital letter in red. The maps are said to date from the 12th century.

Only 200 copies of this reproduction were issued. cf. "Un manuscrit de la géographie de Ptolémée découvert au Mont Athos."—"Remarques sur le manuscrit de la géographie de Ptolémée, trouvé au monastère de Vatopède (Mont Athos), reproduit photographiquement, en entier et en grandeur naturelle, par P. de Sévastianoff", in *Société de géographie. 74 l. (preceded by 1 and followed by 2 blank l.) comprising: 4 p. l., 28 maps on 27 sheets & 1 l., [30] pp. fol.

(sig. (?) in twos; (?) (?) in one; , A-Cc in twos, single leaf bet. N & O; a-h in twos).

The maps, considered the finest ever prepared for the work and reprinted with the text in 1584, 1605 and 1619, were engraved on copper, each with an elaborate cartouche, but without ornamental borders. They comprise the "Vniversalis tabula tvxta Ptolemeum"; ten of Europe; five of Africa, one a single leaf entitled "Appendix III. Tabulae Afr.; twelve of Asia.
